Garry Mann Of Swartz Killed On Road; Reward Of $25 Posted

Funeral arrangements for Garry Selvin Mann, of Swartz, were [illegible] complete today pending [illegible] from a daughter, Mrs. [illegible], of Fresno, Calif.

Mann, struck and killed early Sunday morning by a hit-and-run driver near the city limits east of Monroe, suffered crushed legs and chest and injuries about the head. One leg was amputated below the knee, according to the report of Dr. J. T. French, coroner.

Chief of Police Frank V. Reitzell announced Monday morning that he has posted a reward of $25 for any information in regard to the automobile which struck Mann.

"All information will be kept strictly confidential," Chief Reitzell stated.

The body of Mann was discovered about 1:30 a.m. Sunday by two youths passing by who reported to the city police. Indications are, officials said, that Mann, walking to his home in Swartz, was struck by an automobile en route to Monroe. The body was tentatively identified by the name G. S. Mann inscribed on his wallet. A short time after the arrival of Dr.

Former Tax Attorney Seeks $10,954 In Suit

Justin Daspit Claims Fee Due Him From Oil Refining Firm

BATON ROUGE, Oct. 28—(AP)—Justin Daspit, former special assistant attorney general assigned to the state revenue department, today filed suit for $10,954 against the Sinclair Refining Company, claiming the sum was due him as attorney's fees for prosecution of a successful tax case against the company.

District Judge Charles A. Holcombe signed an order setting November 4 for a hearing and meanwhile restraining the company from paying the controverted amount to the state. Daspit alleged that the United States supreme court last week refused to review a state supreme court decision awarding the state $120,458 in gasoline taxes from the company.

This judgment, he claimed, included a statutory fee for himself and Fred A. Blanche, who he said assisted him in the suit. Daspit added that if it were paid to the state his rights in it might be clouded.

Daspit represented the revenue department for several years, he said, but was dismissed June 15 "solely to provide a job for another attorney."

Stiff Fight Between Naval Units Reported Off Of Corfu

ATHENS, Oct. 28—(AP)—Authoritative neutral military sources said tonight they had information that Turkish troops have moved into Thrace and eastern Greece.

There was no immediate confirmation of this available from the Turkish legation here.

ATHENS, Oct. 28—(AP)—The British fleet came to the aid of invaded Greece today in the first day of her war with Italy and, informed sources said, took over the strategic 150-mile long island of Crete while Greece's little army fought the Italians all along the northern frontier.

British warships also were reported to have engaged Italian naval units in a stiff battle off Corfu, Ionian island just opposite the juncture of the Albanian and Greek frontiers, and to have occupied a small island with an airdrome nearby.

Crete, reported being occupied by landing parties from other British warships, lies in the eastern Mediterranean southeast of the Greek mainland.

Still other reports, these from reliable neutral sources and not officially confirmed, said Turkish troops, responding to Greece's call for help

TWO STUDENTS HURT IN CRASH

Miss Fredmal Norris And Brother Are Injured In Highway Wreck

Miss Fredmal Norris, 19, student of Louisiana Tech, and her brother, Walter Norris, 21, were taken to the St. Francis Sanitarium early Monday morning following an automobile accident about 12 miles out of West Monroe.

Miss Norris suffered a broken collar bone and five broken ribs; the youth suffered bruises and cuts, according to Dr. J. E. Walsworth, attending physician.

The two children of Mr. and Mrs. William Norris, Calhoun road, West Monroe, were en route to college this morning when their car collided with a truck crossing the highway, Mr. Norris stated.

Miss Norris, a junior, is taking art and Walter is studying electrical engineering, the father stated, and make the trip daily. No one else was in the automobile at the time.

Walter Norris was released from the St. Francis shortly after the accident. Miss Norris, according to Dr. Walsworth, is in a favorable condition.

DESPERADO ESCAPES PARCHMAN FARM IN MISSISSIPPI BREAK

PARCHMAN, Miss., Oct. 28—(AP)—Kennie Waggoner, noted desperado wanted on murder charges in three states, early today escaped from the Mississippi state penitentiary farm here, prison officials reported.

The convict, serving a life term for murder, kidnaped a camp driver and forced him to drive north of Clarksdale on highway 61, where Waggoner changed clothes with the guard and then drove away.

Waggoner and the guard, listed only as "Fowler," had been sent out to find a negro convict who had escaped from one of the prison camps. Highway patrol headquarters broadcast descriptions of Waggoner and warned that he was armed with a Winchester rifle, another gun and a pistol he took from Fowler, who returned here to give the alarm.

VIEUX CARRE UNITS DAMAGED BY BLAZE

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 28—(AP)—Three French quarter buildings, one of them among the earliest New Orleans skyscrapers when it was built about 1811, suffered about $10,000 damage today from an early morning fire.

Police said the fire started at 638 Royal street and quickly spread to 640, a five-story structure known as the Dr. Yves Lemonnier house after the physician who had it built to tower over the city's early dwellings.

The other damaged building was at 638 St. Peter street, around the corner.

'All Present Questions' Discussed By Axis Partners In Italy

TALK GREECE SETUP

Fuehrer Welcomed By Duce; Two Ministers Sit In On Conference

FLORENCE, Italy, Oct. 28—(AP)—Adolf Hitler and Benito Mussolini talked in complete harmony "on all present questions" here today as Italy took what were described as "urgent measures required to face the danger of the situation" in Greece.

A communique issued after the axis leaders' first, three-hour session, merely said that their conversation, "in the spirit of the alliance between the two countries, developed as always in the most cordial form and showed a complete identity of views on all present questions."

The two axis leaders began their session at 11:30 a.m. and emerged at 1:30 p.m. for luncheon with their foreign ministers, Joachim von Ribbentrop and Count Galeazzo Ciano, and other dignitaries.

A second conference was scheduled later.

The Berlin radio broadcast the following communique, dated Florence:

"The fuehrer and the duce had a conversation Monday lasting several hours about the present topical questions which took place in the spirit of alliance between the two countries, as usual, in a cordial manner. It resulted in complete agreement of views.

"German Foreign Minister von Ribbentrop and Italian Foreign Minister Count Ciano took part in the conversations."

Warplanes droned overhead to keep the skies above Florence safe from air attack as the two leaders sat down at a large rectangular table in the massive Palazzo Vecchio, which serves as the city hall.

It was Hitler's second visit to Florence, which he saw first in May, 1938, when he came to Italy to solidify the axis.

As they sat, Mussolini on one side of the table with Hitler at his right and Ribbentrop and Ciano seated across from the fuehrer, a bust of Machiavelli—who once worked in the room—looked down at them from one corner.

Today was the 18th anniversary of the Fascist march on Rome which put Mussolini in power in Italy.

It was the second meeting of the axis chiefs within the month, they having met at the Brenner pass October 4 in a conference at which unofficial circles reported they agreed on a show-down with Greece as well as negotiations for a peace settlement with France.

Von Ribbentrop's train arrived in Bologna at 9 a.m. (1 a.m. CST) and the fuehrer's a half hour later. The

King George Acts Under Provocation Of Three-Hour Ultimatum

(By Associated Press)

Tiny Greece declared war on Italy under the provocation of a three-hour ultimatum today, and King George II threw the nation's estimated 100,000 soldiers into battle against 200,000 Italian troops along the Greek-Albanian frontier.

The ultimatum expired at 6 a.m. (10 p.m., CST). An hour later, Athens had its first air-raid alarm. The Corinth and Tatoi airdromes, 12 miles from the ancient capital of Greece, were bombed, and Italian warplanes in three waves attacked the port city of Patras. Four were killed and 17 wounded.

Great Britain, pledged to aid Greece in the event of attack, was reported rushing the assistance of her powerful Mediterranean fleet. It was believed a major sea battle between British and Italian fleets was imminent.

Fears were widespread that the Italian invasion would precipitate a general conflagration in Southeast Europe.

In Belgrade, diplomatic circles heard unconfirmed reports that Turkey had declared war on Italy, but this was discounted in other quarters as premature.

Yugoslavia's premier, Dragisa Cvetkovic, called an emergency cabinet meeting, and shortly before 11 a.m., Yugoslav troops with full war equipment marched through the streets of Belgrade toward the railroad station.

Official statements, however, asserted Yugoslavia would remain neutral.

In Sofia, semi-official circles expressed a belief that Bulgaria would not attempt to capitalize now on Greece's plight to press her claims for a part of Grecian Thrace.

Cheering crowds roved the streets of Athens, ignoring air-raid alarms,

Petain Gets Message; Laval Given New Post

Contents Of Roosevelt Note To Premier-Marshal Secret

VICHY, France, Oct. 28—(AP)—A foreign ministry spokesman said today Marshal Philippe Petain, France's chief of state, had received from President Roosevelt a "personal message" which could be disclosed only by Petain "because of the privacy of its character."

The spokesman said the foreign ministry had been informed only orally of the arrival of the message.

Diplomatic sources here believed Roosevelt's note concerned the current negotiations between Petain and Adolf Hitler.

The note was said to have been delivered to Henri Haye in Washington and to Petain directly by the United States charge d'affaires, H. Freeman Matthews, last Saturday morning.

Vice-Premier Pierre Laval was named foreign minister today to succeed Paul Baudouin, who became secretary of state attached to the presidency of the council.

The French cabinet held an emergency session and Laval headed for

NOTICE ISSUED

The following notice was issued to all registrants yesterday by G. R. Williams, chief clerk of Selective Service Board No. 2:

"It is not necessary that any registrant be required to look up, or have, his serial number, unless he just desires same for his own personal satisfaction. In due course of time all local boards will mail to all registrants both their serial numbers and their order numbers.

"For the information of all registrants, the local radio station, KMLB, will announce tonight, starting at 9:15 p.m., the names and serial numbers of both local boards. (No. 1 covers the registrants of the city of Monroe, and local board No. 2 covers the registrants who live in Ouachita parish, but outside of the city limits of Monroe.) KMLB will give the complete name and serial numbers starting sharply at 9:15 p.m., October 28."

FIRE DAMAGES HOME OF JAMES WARNERS

A fire of undetermined origin swept the home of Mr. and Mrs. James K. Warner, 2001 Ridge avenue, West Monroe, about 1 a.m. Sunday. Damages were estimated by Chief Frank Roddy at 60 per cent loss.

"I woke up smelling smoke and managed to get the children out the back way," Mr. Warner stated. He declared that he had no knowledge of the cause of the fire.

Members of the Monroe fire department managed to save part of the furnishings as well as clothes and articles in closets.

CAMPAIGN OF CHEST IS REPORTED AHEAD OF DRIVE DURING '39

Community Chest officials declared today that the drive this year is far ahead of 1939. More money was raised the first two days this year than was raised during the first six days a year ago.

The women workers have practically finished their house to house campaign and are reporting greater success than before, officials said.

Present contributions to the chest fund are $7,893, as shown by local thermometers placed about the city. The quota is set at $27,700 and officials are expecting to complete the drive ahead of schedule.

School contributions are reported topping those of last year. Each school, it was explained by officials, has a special contribution box which will be opened the day after the drive ends, November 7.

SISTERS ARRESTED IN ROOSEVELT CASE

NEW YORK, Oct. 28—(AP)—Two sisters accused of throwing an onion from the top of a building at President Roosevelt as his automobile sped through Brooklyn were arrested today.

Police said the girls would be booked on disorderly conduct charges. They gave their names as Italia D'Arbe, 21, a houseworker, and Mary D'Arbe, 17, an unemployed typist.

A mounted patrolman arrested the girls soon after the incident. The onion fell several feet from the president's moving automobile.

TREASURY REFUND

Forecasting Of Weather Five Days Ahead Success

By Irving Perlmeter

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28—(AP)—The weather man confessed today he was doing fairly well predicting the weather five days in advance, but was having trouble putting it in the right place.

Semi-weekly forecasts, each predicting weather on a broad regional basis five days in advance, were inaugurated recently on an experimental basis.

Dr. C. G. Rossby, assistant chief of the Weather Bureau, checking what was predicted in each period against what actually happened, said:

"Precipitation forecasts, while far from perfect, have been pretty successful, and have been improving with practice. Temperature forecasts haven't worked out so well, due to errors in timing, but ought to improve with experience."

Timing, he went on, was the crux of the problem. The weather experts, on the basis of reports from thousands of stations, could pretty well see what general weather conditions were ahead, but how they affect some specific area depends on wind speeds, local ground characteristics, and many other factors.

It sounded something like the job of getting a hit in a ball game. There has to be a ball thrown where the batter can reach it, and the bat has to be swung at just the right split second and in the right direction to connect.

A small error in a batter's timing might result in either a swinging strike or a foul. Thus, recently, some heavy rainstorms were seen heading eastward for the east coast. The experts predicted they would arrive at a time when conditions would be favorable for downpours all along the coast. But the winds were faster than they figured and the storm was out over the ocean before it let go.

Dr. Rossby noted some "bright spots" in the five-day forecasts, mostly Florida, New England, most of the Great Lakes region, and parts of the Middle West.

He likened forecasting to baseball again in the matter of performance, because it's averages that count more

Panama Residents Marry To Beat Nation's Tariff

By W. H. Mosley

PANAMA, R. P.—(Correspondence of the Associated Press)—People are getting married here to beat the tariff.

If that seems odd, bear in mind that this is a country where a man can be right in the middle of a lot of restaurants, with a pocket full of money, and still have to go 15 miles for a meal.

These phenomena arise, like so many things in Panama, from the existence of the Canal zone, the 10-mile strip across the middle of the country.

In the Zone, special economic privileges are given to United States government employes, and to nobody else.

Canal employes, who number somewhere above 25,000, an estimated 25,000 soldiers, government contractors' forces numbering thousands, navy personnel, and their dependents, are privileged to buy food, clothing and household articles in government commissaries in the Zone which pay no tariff and sell at cost plus expenses.

Nobody else is permitted to buy there, and there is no private business in the Zone. Panama will not permit it, fearing damage to business in the republic.

No matter how much money you have, you have to go as much as a half hour's drive to get something to eat if you don't happen to work for Uncle Sam.

The government has always accorded commissary privileges to common-law wives and natural children of the big force of native workers. An order just issued by Governor Glen Edgerton withdrew the privileges, leaving them the alternative of getting married or paying the higher out-of-Zone price.

The Colon fire in April similarly brought about a considerable increase in weddings. The blaze took the homes of several hundred canal employes. The government quickly built Zone quarters for some 200 key workers, and marriage license figures jumped as soon as it became known only legally married couples would be eligible for them.

As an illustration of the price difference a Panama resident might have to pay over $200 more for a small automobile than his United States employe neighbor living right across the street, over the Zone line.

A can of tomatoes that costs eight cents in the commissary, is 40 cents in a Panama grocery.

The republic rigorously enforces the rule against commissary sales to unauthorized persons. Anybody crossing into Panama is likely to be stopped for customs examination. If a Zone resident wants to go picnicking in the republic he needs a panama customs permit for the lunch basket.

Charming Affairs For Mrs. F. C. Amman

Friends From This City Motor To Bastrop To Attend Bridge Affairs And Receptions

Several charming affairs arranged by Bastrop hostesses complimentary to Mrs. Frederick Charles Amman, a bride of recent date, were widely attended by Monroe friends last week.

Claiming prominence among the courtesies was the reception given by Mr. and Mrs. Allen Turpin. Their attractive home, banked with pink and white chrysanthemums, provided a lovely setting for the beautifully gowned hostess, her guest of honor and others who extended courtesies.

Mrs. Turpin was wearing a white chiffon and pink lace evening model with a corsage of pink carnations. The guest of honor, Mrs. Amman, wore a white satin evening model fashioned along Princess lines and carried an old fashioned nosegay of pink sweetheart roses and valley lilies. Mrs. Frederick Amman, Sr., wore a cobalt blue evening model with corsage of pink gladioli. Mrs. C. M. Corbin wore a Como blue chiffon model with corsage of pink gladioli.

A stringed orchestra, seated in an alcove, rendered music from the classics throughout the evening.

Iced fruit punch was served during the evening from an immense crystal bowl imbedded in a mound of pink chrysanthemums. A variety of delicious confections were passed among the guests during the evening.

Mrs. R. L. Wood and Miss Evelina Amman, beautifully gowned, presided over the flower banked, candlelit, refreshment table.

Mrs. Arthur McMeans presided over the guest book.

The supper-bridge in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Fudickar with Mr. and Mrs. Corbin Turpin, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Barham and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lloyd, co-hosts, was another gracious compliment bestowed upon Dr. and Mrs. Amman.

Mrs. Amman's gift from her hosts was a set of beautiful crystal salad plates.

A bridge party and "shower" in the home of Mrs. Clare Clark of Mer Rouge and a coffee hour in the home of Mrs. F. J. Willey with Mrs. William McKelvey, co-hostess, and Mrs. Amman the guest of honor, claimed prominence among last week's courtesies.

The reception-tea at Morehouse Country club honoring Mrs. Amman was another gracious affair widely attended by Monroe friends.

One hundred and fifty guests called during the afternoon and were served luscious confections from a tea table developed entirely in silver and crystal and florally adorned with yellow chrysanthemums.

The Swartz P.-T. A. held its regular October meeting with Rev. Sweetman as the guest speaker. The subject for the afternoon was "Our Schools in Citizenship." Rev. Sweetman used for his talk "Our Schools in Community Planning and Citizenship Training." He said in summing up the thoughts: "Christian training must not be neglected. Teach youth the three-fold lesson. That is teach the body, teach the mind, and teach the spirit."

Other numbers on the program included group singing of America and the pledge to the flag, "God Bless America," by seventh grade girls, "Our Flag," by Hilda Scott; song by the first grade, and "Citizenship Can Be Taught," by Mrs. Harvey Hare; "Boom in Patriotism Gives U. S. Flag Biggest Year Since 1917," by Joann Barron.

Mrs. Joe George was elected secretary to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Mrs. R. C. Pittard. The following chairmen were appointed:

Mrs. Bill Cooper, hospitality; Mrs. J. B. Spillers, membership; Mrs. John Scarf, radio; Mrs. P. B. Diegal, music; Mrs. W. C. Turnage, summer roundup; Mrs. H. I. Payne, safety; Mrs. Fred Patterson, budget and finance; Mr. J. C. Sapp, recreation; Mrs. J. B. Spillers, national magazine; Mrs. J. C. Sapp, publications; Mrs. G. B. Wilson, publicity.

Room mothers are:

Mrs. Clyde Reneau, first grade; Mrs. J. B. Spillers, second grade; Mrs. W. C. Turnage, third grade; Mrs. Bill Cosper, fourth grade; Mrs. Joe George, fifth grade; Mrs. T. C. McGlohon, sixth grade; Mrs. Harvey Hare, seventh.

Mrs. J. B. Spillers gave a splendid report of the Fifth district meeting held in Tallulah October 9. The program for the year was read and year books will be passed out in the near future. Mrs. Pittard and Mrs. Zolls, fourth and fifth grades, tied for room count, the prize of $1 to be divided between them.

Of affectionate interest to her many friends is the announcement of the marriage of Miss Margaret Elizabeth Booth to Mr. Clarence C. Rodgers of Madison, Wis.

The ceremony was performed in the presence of intimate friends at the First Baptist church in Jackson, Miss., October 22, with Dr. H. W. Hewitt officiating.

The bride wore an original Franklin model of moss green with Siberian squirrel trim, and matching green accessories. Her corsage was of Talisman roses and valley lilies.

Miss Booth is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Booth of this city, and is a graduate of Northeast Junior College. After graduating in teacher training she was enrolled in the school of music of that institution, where she showed active interest in music circles and other civic organizations. After attending the summer term at the University of Arkansas she enrolled in a commercial college in Jackson.

The groom is a graduate of the University of Missouri, where he received his B. S. degree in education. After teaching in high schools in Iowa for several years, he received a life-time certificate from the state.

Later Mr. Rodgers did advanced work at the University of Wisconsin. His interest in aviation inspired him to write several books on the subject. One in particular, "Wings Over America," brought praise from publishers as the best of its kind in detailed progress of aviation from its beginning to the present. He wrote the extension course for students of aviation at the University of Wisconsin where he is now writing and doing research.

Immediately following the ceremony Mr and Mrs. Rodgers left for a brief wedding trip to Chicago and Milwaukee.

They will make their home in Madison, Wis.

Mrs. Grayson Guthrie, Jr., placed red Radiance roses in artistic profusion in the music room of her home when she entertained members of the Musical Coterie.

The musical selections, featuring the afternoon's program, were charmingly introduced by Mrs. Ben Rush who discussed "Rhythm," one of the four elements of music.

Each number was an illustration of rhythmic effects with "Zortzico" played by Mrs. P. L. Perot in 5-4 time, a charming example.

Chopin's Etude was rendered additionally interesting by cross sections and the Gershwin Prelude furnished an example of the rhythms of jazz. The numbers were beautifully rendered by Miss Beulah Doerr and Mrs. B. D. Allbritton.

During the social hour Mrs. Guthrie served fresh strawberry shortcake, salted nuts and coffee to:

Mrs. B. D. Allbritton, Miss Dorothy Calvert, Miss Beulah Doerr, Mrs. Roger C. Frisbie, Mrs. Dallas Goss, Mrs. Grayson Guthrie, Jr., Mrs. Louis Hullum, Mrs. Julius Kugler, Miss Mary Grace Lawn, Mrs. P. L. Perot, Mrs. R. B. Rush, Mrs. Clyde Sanders, Mrs. B. A. Trousdale, Jr., Mrs. Henry Whitfield.

The Lida Benton P.-T. A. meeting last week was presided over by the program chairman, Mrs. D. L. Moss. Mrs. B. E. Kelly gave a splendid talk on "Child Study, and Rearing Our Children." A lovely old song, "My Isle of Golden Dreams" was given by the mother singers. Climaxing the meeting, was a duet, beautifully rendered by Mrs. C. Sisson and Mrs. T. Finkbeiner.

The meeting was then turned over to the president, Mrs. R. L. Cummings. All reports were given and discussed. Mrs. Cummings read a topic on "Parent Power Plus Teacher Power Plus Citizen Power." Mrs. Sisson gave a talk on the district meeting that was held at Tallulah, La.

Plans for the Halloween party were completed. The public is invited to attend.

The meeting was dismissed by singing "Love's Old Sweet Song."

The executive committee of the Central Grammar School met in the principal's office. In the absence of the president, Miss Katie Key presided.

Mrs. E. G. Courtney was elected to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of the vice-president. A report from the Twin City council meeting was given by Mrs. J. B. McCoy. A report of the radio programs to be given this year was submitted at this time.

The main object and project this year is to raise funds to help buy band instruments for children who are unable to purchase same.

Miss Winnie Graham Breard, graduate student, has been selected to lead the program committee of the French House at the state university, Baton Rouge. The program committee works out an entertainment for the members of the house, all of whom are majoring in the romance languages. Miss Breard is a graduate of St. Vincent's college and academy and Roseman college, and spent one year studying languages in Switzerland. She is a member of Chi Omega, social sorority.

A marriage of much interest in this section was that of Miss Doris Scott, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Scott of St. Joseph to Horace Curry of Newellton. The marriage was solemnized at the Trinity Episcopal church in Natchez, Miss.

Mrs. Pollard Coleman of Waterproof, a life-long friend of the bride and Sprague De Witt were the attendants. The young couple will reside in Newellton on their return from their bridal tour.

Treble Clef Musical Coterie, newly organized club, met at the home of Mrs. Kugler, with Mrs. Frisbie acting as counselor. The following officers were elected: Betty Firnburg, president; Ann Humphries, vice-president; Sally Foster, secretary; Margaret Vaughn, treasurer; Mary Alice Mickel, reporter; Mary Frances Calhoun, historian; Edith McWilliams, librarian.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Leon Dennis and son, Jimmy, have returned from a motor trip to Dallas and Fort Worth, Tex.

THE ROAD TO SHANI LUN

by Rita Mahler Hanson

YESTERDAY: Lovely Lynn Britton has been, to all reasonable purposes, sold in marriage to a Mongol prince she never has seen. Now that Temu and Sherdock, who are taking her to her distasteful meeting with the Prince, have explained his romantic origin as the orphaned son of white missionaries, she cannot down her curiosity, though she is still determined to escape.

Chapter 17

Dream Travel

THE next day the trek across the stony desert of bitter water began, to continue day after day in forced marches ever bearing west by south. The caravan started at dawn, plodded steadily through icy mists or rains or biting winds, with occasional days of spring mildness. Sometimes the camels grazed the sparse desert growth; at other times not a reed nor a thorn could be found, and the animals ate a double ration of dried peas and barley, while the horses drank limited amounts of water carried in goat skins.

Nothing of moment happened. There was no brush with brigands or unusual struggle against the elements. Lynn lived like a person in a dream, finding an odd, passive pleasure in following the ever-receding horizon and in talking to Temu and Sherdock and Gersing during the morning and evening meals. She knew they would eventually pass into the mountain country where the Hoang-ho steamboats owned by white men plied the waters.

Leaving the bleakest part of the desert, they entered a rolling country of better grass where sheep replaced goats in the nomad flocks. They camped one night at a pleasant spot called Watch Tower Wells, at the edge of a wide plain where spring had touched the sod, bringing out the grass and flowers.

The next morning after breakfast the four travelers sat a while in the dining tent. Temu had interviewed a local nomad chieftain, as well as Chin Pak and Bula and the head camel-puller. Little Bamboo brought in the kitten which jumped from its basket and came forward mewing for attention like a child that has been left alone for a while. It arched its neck, half rising to meet Lynn's caressing hand.

"How it has grown," she remarked, lifting it to her lap as Temu watched her.

"That we see beings such as that kitten with our limited vision, is always evidence to me that there are other beings we do not see," he said.

Sherdock put away his long-stemmed pipe. "Some people," he declared, "do not even see the spirits of the earth."

"I don't," said Lynn. "I'm not even convinced there are such things."

"You will be some day. Let Temu take you into the mountains back of Delun."

Her eyes twinkling, she turned to the younger man. "Will you take me if I should happen to go to Delun some day of my own free will?"

"What's this," he bantered. "Are you still believing that you can escape?"

"Luck won't be with you always."

"Oh, I don't know. You will love the mountains back of Delun. I am told there are gnomes and pixies in every glen."

"You are told? Haven't you seen them?"

"I lack the magic that opens a man's eyes," he answered gravely. "They tell me that if I would see the fairies, I must walk hand in hand with an incarnate goddess."

He might be mocking her, but the words and timbre of his voice stirred her pulses. He reached over and gave the kitten a stroke or two and then desisted.

"Its bones are too frail for me. I prefer a husky pet, something my hands won't crush." He picked up one of Lynn's firm, white hands. "Something like this—strong and splendid." He tipped her chin with a gentle, nudging fist and spoke to the Duchess.

"Gersing, see this Tara chin with a threat of a dimple in it."

Lynn thought it was an odd mood for him, for ordinarily, he was rather careful not to touch her. He jumped to his feet impatiently.

"Will we ever reach the end of this journey!" He strode out of the tent, the three of them following him with their eyes.

Lynn turned in time to see Sherdock smiling to himself. "We have done well," he said. "Never before has a caravan of this size crossed the desert with such speed."

"I've got to get away from them!" Lynn thought, in a sudden state of panic. "They're weaving a net around me."

She went out to Temu who was talking to Bula about a sick camel.

"May I go for a horseback ride?" she asked abruptly.

Dressed in Mongol trousers and a full-sleeved Mongol shirt of brightest blue beneath a fawnskin vest, and with a gay, red beret on her head, she made a pretty picture for Mongol eyes.

He looked at her sharply for a moment. "Sorry. You're in the wrong frame of mind. I don't want to be bothered with having to follow and bring you back. Walk about the camp if you need exercise."

Lynn lashed out in a sudden flare of anger. "Bandit! Stealer of women! You'll pay for this!"

He usually laughed at her rages. This time they were both on edge and he answered her in kind. "I'm paying now if you only knew. I don't like this any better than you do." He turned again to Bula.

Lynn went straight up the hill back of the camp. It was the foot of a series of ridges that rose eventually to a divide and then sloped down to the Great Wall and the Yellow River.

"If only I could fly!" she cried aloud. She felt almost angry and desperate enough to flap her arms and try should she find a suitable cliff from which to take off. "Why," she asked herself, "why should fledging birds have powers that I do not?"

She went along the crest of the hill for a distance always keeping in sight of the camp. She neither wanted Temu Darin following her nor thinking her so stupid as to try to escape on foot. Finally, she stood still to view a distant snow-capped mountain that rising mists revealed beyond the western plain. It reminded her of her own Sierras at home; yet not, she noticed, with a feeling of longing and homesickness. That life seemed the dream now and this the reality. Her hand caressed the charm box at her throat. Surely, something bigger than any of the visible powers around her was leading her—but where?

Presently on her ears fell a sound that she took at first for the beat of drums. Then it changed to a slightly dissonant roar that soon became more regular.

"A motor!" she cried. "An automobile!" An instant later she spied the car in the canyon beyond the ridge on which she stood. She turned and looked back at the camp. The sound, she suspected, would not be heard from there. If only she could intercept the car as it toiled up the trackless gorge!

She began to run, waving her beret. The driver apparently saw her for he stopped the motor. She fairly coasted down a sandy slip to meet him. He had stepped out of the car, a tall man in khaki and a Stetson hat—a white man.

"I'm an American. Are you?" she demanded breathlessly.

He stared at her for a moment in unbelieving silence. "An American! And what on earth are you doing here?" His accent answered her question; he, too, was American.

"I was carried off by a band of natives," she explained. "They let me take a walk alone this morning and I saw you. Take me away quickly. Their camp is in the plain beyond this hill."

"Just a minute. I don't want to get in trouble with the local tent-dwellers. I must work this region all summer. What——"

"My captors aren't local people," she interrupted. "They're a caravan of heavily armed men from across the desert. If you would save me, we must go at once. They are ruthless; they will stop at nothing."

He turned decisively and opened the car door. "Jump in."

It was an ancient touring car with camp equipment in the tonneau. The engine started reluctantly. The driver backed to a spot where he could turn around and follow the road he had come. Lynn's last glimpse of the place from which she had first seen her rescuer revealed the fact that she had not yet been followed. She settled down in her seat.

"This is miraculous," she said. "I've thought of all kinds of schemes for escaping. And, here without any scheming at all, you come along and rescue me."

Her companion gave her a quick, sidelong glance. "I am Frederick Wallace, a plant hunter. I have headquarters and a wife in Lanfou on the Yellow River, where we will arrive some time before dark—if we don't break an axle," he stammered, as they bounded over an outcrop of rock in a narrow curve of the draw that soon widened eventually to the top of the divide.

His eyes, she noticed, had that look of innocence seen in the eyes of little babies or scholarly men. Such a characteristic seemed hardly compatible with his adventurous occupation. "Now tell me your story," he said.

Her story!

"I hardly know how to begin," Lynn faltered. She found in herself a strange loyalty and a strong reluctance to say anything that would harm Sherdock and Temu Darin, as if, in truth, they were her people as they claimed to be.

Too, the facts were so incredible! Perhaps not too incredible for Asia where anything can happen. But what was to be gained by the telling? If the story were believed, it would cause Temu more trouble than anybody else. The Prince, she surmised, would slip out of the responsibility in some way.

She determined to say as little as she could, and that nothing she might say would later trouble Temu. She looked back as the car jolted along—they would follow her, of course. But could camels and horses overtake a motor car?

REVIVAL SERVICES BEING CONTINUED

The revival at the Assembly of God Church at Cypress and Crosley streets in West Monroe is now in the third week, with interest increasing daily. Sunday was a big day with large crowds attending both services. Rev. R. L. Bartlett spoke Sunday morning on "A Broken and Contrite Spirit." Sunday night his subject was "Jesus Our Substitute."

Rev. Bartlett is a forceful speaker and is delivering sermons much in keeping with the times.

Services are being held each day at 7:30 p.m., except Monday. Services will be omitted at the church. The congregation is invited to attend a fellowship meeting at the Assembly of God tent at Hart and Harrison streets in Monroe.

MINSTREL REVUE HERE THURSDAY

'In The Money' Will Be Presented By Kiwanis For Benefit

"To say we're in the money is really very funny because among us all we haven't got a single cent," is the opening tone of the Kiwanis minstrel revue "In The Money" which is to be given at the Neville High School auditorium Thursday night.

Those attending this year's production are assured of a snappy show which is being given to aid the Kiwanis Underprivileged Children's Fund.

The theme of the production is [illegible] and the cast of boys and girls, men and women, numbering [illegible], have found a way in which to pay their debts. In the opening number they sing a tune in which they tell their plan.

There are [illegible] scenes [illegible] "In the Money" that will offer comedy, tragedy, music and dancing. Costumes of bright and gay colors [illegible] the chorus [illegible]. The costumes for the boys and girls in the dance [illegible] and specialties are without a doubt the most elaborate ever seen here. The dainty costumes for the flower girls and bridesmaids in the "Bony Dee Bride" number, as well as the [illegible] gowns worn in the "stomp" number and the "military" drill caused much comment.

The "stomp" number is lead by Gene Young singing "The Wall Street Stomp" and danced by Bernice Nichols, Martha Renaud, Joanne Guerriero, Mary Burkett, Peggy Marx and Frances Wilson.

For comedy, "In the Money" can offer no better than Mrs. Norman Coon singing "Give Me Any Kind of a Man" to her boy friends H. B. Hodges, Irv Jordan, R. C. Stoker, W. O. Webb, Dr. Thomas Brulte, Dr. A. L. Peters, D. M. Smith and Jack Russell. "In the Money" should be on your must list for Thursday night.

EXPLAINS TESTS IN MISSISSIPPI

Extension Service Review Describes Five Nutrition Institutes

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28.—(AP)—The Extension Service Review, a magazine published by the agriculture department for extension workers, says in an article that county workers in Mississippi felt they had "gained a great deal" from five nutrition institutes conducted last spring in five farming areas of different types in the state.

The institutes enabled the workers to think through their problem and plan a concerted approach to it, the article says. The gatherings were at Tupelo, Meridian, Hattiesburg, Jackson, and Greenwood. Local county workers, it says, were "faced with the serious problem of adequate food for home owners as well as for a large and shifting tenant population, many of whom do not plan to lay in food for the winter."

Reviewing the work done at the institutes, the article says that Dr. Dorothy Dickins of the Mississippi experiment station pointed out to the meetings that "the precedence given to cash crops had retarded adequate production of food for the families growing these crops, and that attitudes of mind slowed up adjustments even after food requirements were known."

During discussions on how to get well-balanced meals "strong in protective foods" into the everyday diet of farm families, the article continues, "Many landlords were reported eager to have their tenants grow gardens, keep chickens and a cow, but tenants were unwilling to do so."

"There seemed to be many reasons for this," it added. "In fact it appeared that a better food supply and better food habits might require the readjustment of attitudes toward life in general, housing standards, family relationships, working hours, habits, and many other things."

After each of the participating organizations had outlined the work it was doing, it was felt that if a few simple things could be chosen as most essential at present or for the coming year, all efforts might be focused more effectively on these few things. The children would hear about it at school and in 4-H clubs, the mother in her home demonstration or P.-T. A. meeting, the health nurse would carry the message, the [illegible] manager would carry out the same idea in her work, and thus more progress might be made."

HIT-RUN DRIVER IS SOUGHT HERE

French Marshall Mann, son of the dead man, identified the body as that of his father, an employe of the United Carbon Company.

Apparently the body of Mann had been knocked some 70 feet by the car. Evidence indicated that Mann was not killed instantly, Dr. [illegible] said.

Funeral services will be conducted at the Baptist church at [illegible] and interment will be in the Springhill cemetery.

Arrangements are under the direction of the Peters Funeral Home.

WIZARD WILL GIVE PERFORMANCE HERE

Willard, the Wizard, famous magician, will open an engagement at the Missouri Pacific lot tonight under the auspices of the Missouri Pacific Boosters Club.

Wizard is said to have a carload of scenery and special effects and will present a company of 20 persons.

The magician, who presents his show in a waterproof tent, gives an entertaining performance, officials of the Missouri Pacific club said.

LITTLE CHICAGO BALLOT TUESDAY

and candidate for city judge, will entertain all of the candidates in tomorrow's election at a dance at the Little Club. Everybody is invited to come out and meet the boys and have a good time, "Pop" stated.

Riding in the parade tonight will be seven attractive young ladies who will compete at the Paramount Theater tomorrow night for queen of Little Chicago.

The queen will be crowned by Mayor Sammie Wood at a grand ball at the Frances Hotel, sponsored by the Veterans of Foreign Wars, later it was announced.

Competing for queen of Little Chicago are Rosalie Sherman, B and A Jewelry company; Sue H[illegible], News-Star-World; Opal Lee Rutherford, Allen Monument company; Lovie Mc[illegible], Sammie's Cafe; Sallie Holloway, Guarantee Shoe Store; Cula Fay D[illegible], Tom Adams Grocery, and Lee Myers, [illegible] Pharmacy.

Wheeler Lee, candidate for chief of police, stated that he is confident of his election and has gone so far as to complete the [illegible] in expectation of having a number of West Monroe candidates [illegible] before [illegible].

Johnnie "Pop-eye" Skinner, candidate for general manager, declared this morning that he has made arrangements with a local undertaker to take care of Sammie Wood following tomorrow night's election returns. "He'll need him," Skinner said, referring to Wood.

[illegible] "Red" Salley, present city judge, told the West Monroe candidates [illegible] his opponent, C. N. [illegible], didn't have a chance and he thought that he ought to pull out now.

"Well, [illegible] could save a lot of money," Judge Salley said, "for he is as good as licked now."

Both Kokinos and Wood were having a hard time this morning with their nervous systems. Kokinos has chewed up a number of cigars and Wood has about worn out the floor of his restaurant. Each candidate, though, declared that he will win fairly. They are already telling their friends that they can have certain jobs.

Well, anyway come out and vote until you are caught tomorrow by the opposition and there is a possibility that you can get away with about 50 ballots if the other gang doesn't catch you at it.

WESLEYAN UNION HOLDS GATHERING

TALLULAH, Oct. 28.—(Special)—A meeting of the Wesleyan Union, composed of Methodist young people's organizations of this section of Northeast Louisiana, was held here Sunday afternoon with representatives of the churches of Oak Grove, Pioneer, Epps, Lake Providence and Tallulah in attendance.

Miss Dorothy Pevytoe, president of the union, presided and gave a talk on a recent meeting of the officials of the state in Alexandria. Miss Dorothy Williams of Lake Providence served as secretary. Miss Geraldine Pevytoe of Oak Grove spoke on "Loyalty" and Misses Lorraine Lovett and Lorraine Smith of Tallulah rendered a musical number.

At the close of the fellowship meeting in the community room of the church, a council meeting of presidents of the various groups with the counselor, Mrs. Ora E. Spinks, was held. Pioneer was chosen as the place of the next meeting.

JURY IS SELECTED IN JACOBS' TRIAL

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 28.—(AP)—Trial of Harry Jacobs, former chief of the state board of engineers, on a charge of murder of his wife July 5, opened today in the St. Bernard parish courthouse.

Mrs. Jacobs was killed by a bullet while in the bedroom of her home.

Selection of a jury, started before noon, was expected to consume most of the day.

WILDLIFE GROUP HEARS ADDRESS

Louisiana Federation Is Formed In Orleans; McCormac Leader

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 28.—(AP)—Louisiana sportsmen, organizing the Louisiana wildlife federation Sunday night, heard Governor Sam H. Jones recommend that the wildlife division of the state conservation department be separated from the mineral division.

The governor said the separation would be made under one of the proposed constitutional amendments to to be voted on November 5.

"If we make conditions right here, the sportsman-tourist, who is a man worth cultivating, will come here with his dollars," said Governor Jones.

Fred J. McCormac of New Orleans, was elected president of the federation.

The resolutions committee approved measures to prevent pollution of streams by industrial plants, particularly in Tangipahoa parish; reduction of the quail limit to 10 per day; increase in the number of state quail hatcheries from the present three, and prohibition of the sale of rabbits.

Authoritative quarters in London said Britain "has every intention of honoring her pledge to Greece"—under the terms of Britain's 1939 guarantee.

In Berlin, informed Nazis said the Greek-Italian conflict was another step in the axis program to "clear up Europe."

Germany's role in the Balkan flare-up was not immediately clear, but as the fighting started Adolf Hitler and Premier Mussolini met in a three-hour conference at Florence, Italy, along with their respective foreign ministers, Joachim von Ribbentrop and Count Galeazzo Ciano.

Rumors were rife in Balkan capitals that Soviet Russia is preparing to take over the Dardanelles "protectively" to safeguard that strategic passage between the Black sea and the Mediterranean from any axis grab.

Belgrade heard reports that Germany would remain aloof from the conflict "for the time being," but it was recalled that German troops were reported last week to have arrived in Albania.

A synchronized Italian naval attack reportedly struck at the Greek island of Corfu while excited Greek soldiers stubbornly opposed the entry of the Italians on land.

Athens and other Greek cities apparently lay at the mercy of Italian bombers, since Greece is reported to have only 125 planes.

Turkey, a close friend of Greece but not formally bound to go to her aid, received the news with outward calm.

Premier Refik Saydam, in a broadcast, declared "We are stronger than ever" but made no mention of the new outbreak.

It was generally believed that Turkey, whose press has warned that "2,000,000 Turkish bayonets" await any axis attack on Turkey, and that any armed move through Greece would be considered as aimed at Turkey, would wait to see how much aid Britain can give Greece, and also to see what Russia's attitude may be.

Rome authorities announced merely that Italy had been obliged to "take measures" to meet a situation caused by alleged Greek-inspired border incidents and "a grave British threat to Greek independence."

There were no indications immediately what action Turkey might take. The Turkish press, however, has said any armed move through Greece would be construed as aimed at Turkey.

The Italian ultimatum, which followed Italian charges of Greek responsibility for a series of alleged incidents along the Albanian-Greek border was handed to Greece's premier-dictator, John Metaxas, at 3 a.m. (7 p.m., CST, Sunday). At 6 a.m., it expired; at 7 a.m., Athens had its first air raid alarm.

Metaxas, in a message to his people, said he "considered the demand and the method in which it was made as a declaration of war by Italy on Greece."

A decree for general Greek mobilization was signed immediately.

King George II told his people that "at this moment, I feel sure every Greek man and woman will do their duty to the end and show themselves worthy of our glorious history."

Fighting along the Greek-Albanian frontier started immediately after the ultimatum expired, Greek Minister Rosetti declared in Belgrade, Yugoslavia. Troops of Greece's small army threw themselves into the path of the Fascist advance through mountain passes.

The battle of Britain continued unabated. German bombers stabbed at London with the break of dawn today, after giving the British capital its 51st consecutive all-night raid last night. The air ministry reported RAF warplanes attacked communications in western Germany during the night, as well as oil targets in Central and Northern Germany and two "invasion ports."

Official German sources claimed that British planes which attempted to attack Berlin during the night were driven off before they reached the city's outer defenses.

At Ottawa, naval service headquarters announced 140 members of the crew of 171 of the Canadian destroyer Margaree were believed lost when the warship collided in the North Atlantic October 22 with a merchant vessel.

Solution of Yesterday's Puzzle

TURKS REPORTED MOVING TROOPS

were marching into Thrace and eastern Greece.

In Athens, the government of "Strong Man" General John Metaxas announced that Britain was sending "unlimited support."

LONDON, Oct. 28.—(AP)—Both King George VI and Prime Minister Winston Churchill have promised Greece every possible help against the Italian invaders in personal messages to the Greek sovereign and prime minister, it was learned tonight.

The messages, from King George VI of England to King George II of Greece, and from Churchill to Premier John Metaxas, conveyed Britain's "positive" assurances that she intends to redeem the pledge of support in the event of attack which was given to Greece by the Chamberlain government in April of 1939.

These assurances were dispatched in response to Greece's appeal for help. Presumably they were given to Greek Minister Simopoulos when he saw Foreign Secretary Lord Halifax at the foreign office this afternoon.

HULL SPEAKS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28.—(AP)—Secretary Hull said today the government was prepared to take any required or advisable steps in connection with the spread of the war to the Balkans. He indicated, however, that a proclamation applying the cash and carry provisions of the neutrality act to Greece probably would not be issued until tomorrow.

The secretary of state told his press conference that he was observing developments closely but that the facts still were largely inconclusive. He added that he was waiting more definite official information before acting.

Whether the government's plans involved the freezing of Greek funds in the United States—a policy followed toward conquered European countries—was not disclosed. A decision was expected to await further developments in Greece.

The Greek minister, Cimon P. Diamantopoulos, had a noon-hour appointment with Sumner Welles, undersecretary of state.

which it has held for nearly a year.

The announcement, issued by headquarters of the South China command at Canton, came as one of the big surprises of the three-year-old Chinese-Japanese war. It said:

"The Japanese forces are evacuating Nanning, which they occupied November 24, 1939, on their own initiative, as further occupation of that city has become meaningless following the entry of Japanese troops into Indo-China."

ATTACK CITY

KUNMING, China, Oct. 28.—(AP)—This eastern terminal of the Burma war supply road was attacked by nine Japanese dive bombers today. The Chinese said there was slight damage outside the northeastern corner of the city.

The alarm lasted nine hours. It was the third attack in three days.

WITNESSES SERVED FOR CRIME HEARING

OPELOUSAS, Oct. 28.—(AP)—Sheriff Simon Stelly and deputies served subpoenas today on persons requested to appear at a hearing by the state crime commission starting here Wednesday.

The sheriff said included in the list are former Sheriff D. J. Doucet and his deputies. Doucet was elected in 1936 on the former state administration ticket and lost in the second primary this year to Stelly, a supporter of Governor Sam Jones.

RAF OBJECTIVES

LONDON, Oct. 28.—(AP)—Oil refineries were the chief targets of British bombers over Germany last night, the air ministry reported today.

Six were attacked, it said, two at Hamburg and others at Hannover, Ostermoor, Gelsenkirchen and Magdeburg.

Among other targets it mentioned 14 German air bases, "invasion ports" along the coasts of France and Belgium and the repeatedly attacked rail and water hubs of Germany's communications system.

Hollywood Notes

By Robbin Coons

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 28.—(AP)—Joan Davis, the falling star of comedy, may go down in movie history as the only actress who made a stomachache pay dividends.

Henna-haired Joan has an invention. She's in business. And she talks like an old-fashioned patent-medicine ad.

"I was sick all the time, weak and tired. I—"

Come, come, Joan! I asked how you were, but I didn't want your symptoms. How about that business deal of yours?

"Well, I'm telling you. I went to doctors, and they said vegetables. They read off list. Spinach, carrots, beets, cabbages, cucumbers. I turned green at the thought. Vegetables! Carrots are all right, but you have to take a vacation to crunch your way through a bunch of 'em.

"So I had a friend, Jack Comstock, who putters around motors, and another friend named Don Groves, who's an engineer. We worked up this motor that turns about as fast as an airplane propeller, and now I feel fine. I play golf. Feel this muscle. I'm just a playground for vitamins."

Fast as an airplane, Joan? And what's the connection?

"Well, 23,000 revolutions a minute. It's a machine to make liquid out of vegetables. You can drink your spinach. It's wonderful. You can drink all your vegetables together. You can accent the flavors you like and hide the ones you don't. Did you ever drink a cucumber with pineapple? You've never tasted a banana until you've drunk one. And nuts—!"

Huh? Say, maybe we'd better talk about pictures.

"I said nuts—you drink a handful of almonds with milk and half a banana. It's marvelous."

You next picture, Joan, is to be—?

"I don't know. Think of people with false teeth, mammas who can't get their babies to eat spinach. Warts."

Joan, pul-leeze!

"Yes, warts. There was a boy who was covered with warts and he drank his vegetables and now the warts are all gone. Honest!"

But you ought to make a picture, Joan, between vitamin crusades?

"Sure, I'm going to, when I get something good. Say, I have an idea for another invention. You know how people are always out of matches, or their lighters are empty? What do you think of a big ring, the kind women wear, with a little lever on it. You lift up this lever and you get a light, right on your finger. . . ."

While the ring plays a tune, Joan?

"Well, you can't blame me for trying, can you? They laughed at Edison, didn't they?"

FAMED SURGEON WILL BE BURIED

Dr. A. C. Scott, Sr., Cancer Expert, Dies Of Heart Attack

TEMPLE, Tex., Oct. 28.—(AP)—Funeral services will be held Tuesday for Dr. A. C. Scott, Sr., 75, skilled surgeon, cancer expert and hospital administrator, who died of a heart attack Sunday.

A pioneer in the use of gas anesthesia, he won fame for his experiment with the hot (Cautery) knife in the removal of cancer.

Dr. Scott, who with the late Dr. R. R. White, established a medical center here, had served as chief surgeon of the Gulf, Colorado and Santa Fe since 1892.

The surgeon was born at Gainesville, Tenn., in 1865, the son of Rufus Franklin and Martha Moran Scott, who moved to Texas shortly after The War Between the States.

He received his doctor of medicine degree from Bellevue Hospital Medical College, New York, before he was 21 years of age.

In 1938, he read a paper at the American Medical Convention in San Francisco explaining his development of the shadow test in diagnosis of cancer of the breast. A cancer exhibit was highly praised at the convention. Later he was asked to show it at the Interstate Postgraduate Medical Congress at Philadelphia. Subsequently the exhibit was displayed at the Southern Medical Association meeting in Oklahoma City.

PREMIER PETAIN RECEIVES NOTE

Paris to continue negotiations with France's new axis partners.

Announcement of the shakeup came in a government communique issued after an urgently-called cabinet session, which Laval left for a trip to Paris for "important discussions." It did not give the reason. He will be joined later by General Charles Huntziger, minister of war.

Earlier, the vice-premier announced he would explain to the nation by radio the French-German conversations which resulted in the Vichy government's agreement to a policy of collaboration with the axis for "peace in Europe."

Laval still is charged with the information and state radio services.

Frenchmen today were forbidden to listen to British radio broadcasts in public places under penalty of confiscation of the radio.

It was believed Baudouin's duties as secretary of state, attached to the office of Marshal Philippe Petain, would be similar to the post of undersecretary of state attached to the presidency of the council under former French regimes.

Laval himself said, however, that Baudouin would have the ranking of full minister.

News of the Italian invasion of Greece arrived in Vichy as the cabinet went into session. There was no official comment, but the typical reaction was that France no longer has a direct interest in Balkan affairs.

Laval was pictured by his friends as highly pleased with the success of his policy but was reported to hold the opinion that it was necessary to have not only the government but strong public opinion back of the new orientation toward the axis in order to achieve results.

As a result, the Petain-Laval government began a campaign last night to make the move popular with the French people.

Government spokesmen said "the choice now has been made" and every Frenchman must accept it.

(General Charles de Gaulle, self-styled leader of the "Free" French forces, announced in a broadcast from Leopoldville, in the Belgian Congo, the formation of a French empire defense council to function as a "war government." The announcement was published yesterday by the British ministry of information in London.

("French officers. French soldiers, French citizens, a few infamous politicians are delivering the empire of France," the general said in part. "Be prepared to stand to your arms."

(The announcement marked the first use of the word "government" in connection with De Gaulle's movement.)

Laval's activiy was interpreted as indicative that spadework on concrete negotiations was well underway and that means of applying the agreement between Hitler and Marshal Philippe Petain, France's chief of state, were not far distant.

(One paragraph censored.)

French spokesmen said no criticism of the collaboration policy could be permitted, contending there was no humiliation for France in the negotiations now in progress and holding out the prospect of a prosperous return to normal.

They praised Germany's "unquestionable grandeur" in treating with a defeated enemy. Strict censorship has been clamped on the French press on the subject and editorial comment has been ordered to conform to the line "trust in Petain and wait and see."

(In London, diplomatic circles understood that Marshal Petain would reply soon, possibly today, to King George's recent message of "encouragement and sympathy.")

WINTER WITHOUT FIREWOOD FACED

LAUSANNE, Switzerland—(AP)—Lausanne authorities have decided to run an early trolley each day for people with push-carts who gather firewood in the forests.

There is growing anxiety over the approaching "coal-less" winter and every means of obtaining fuel is now being employed.

AUTO SUFFERS

ORANGEBURG, S. C.—(AP)—A rabid goat attacked Bonner Hutto's automobile. It reared up on the side of the car, bit at fenders and charged so ferociously that the occupants were unable to get out. Hutto asserted tha goat apparently had been bitten by a fox since a number of cases of rabies among foxes have been discovered in this area.

WEATHER UNIT HAS SUCCESSES

than single day feats. Thus he said he was pleased when he noted that of the first nine five-day forecasts made for Iowa two predictions were complete flops, but five were good and two were fair.

Some of the poorer forecasts have covered the Gulf Coast, the mid and North Rocky Mountain areas, and particularly Montana.

Perfection, he continued, was not nearly so important in the five-day forecasts as the familiar semi-daily predictions. The five-day forecasts were designed, for instance, to warn army officers at maneuvers, engineers at hydro-electric dams, bus companies, and similar services of general conditions ahead.

Thus, an engineer controlling the water in a big dam, Dr. Rossby explained, wants to know more roughly how much rain he can expect in the next five days than on what days it will occur.

Similarly, power firms, whose lines are damaged occasionally by ice forming on the wires, want to know whether they will need their repair crews in certain periods.

The primary work on the five-day forecasts is being done in Boston, with the Weather Bureau and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. There, experts prepare nationwide forecasts, which are relayed to nine other district offices for corrections according to local conditions.

These corrections have proven another stumbling block, because, for instance, weather men familiar only with New England don't always appreciate what the Rocky Mountains do to the weather that comes that way.

To teach the men in Boston more about distant weather conditions, and to teach the men in the districts how the Boston men work, Dr. Rossby has invited men from each of the areas to a conference in Boston next month.

DRAFT LOTTERY IS SET TUESDAY

capsules, and the blindfold to be used during the drawing—were in the custody of selective service officials.

Once the initial ceremonies are over tomorrow, officials estimate that the drawing will proceed at the rate of between 700 and 800 numbers an hour. From start to finish, the lottery is expected to require a minimum of 12 hours.

With few exceptions, local draft boards were believed to have finished the job of shuffling, numbering and posting the serial numbers of almost 17,000,000 registration cards.

Selective service headquarters, busy with late-minute queries, Sunday enunciated the board principle that the conscription program would not be allowed to interfere with the national drive to forge weapons of defense.

"At this stage," said Draft Director Clarence A. Dykstra, "material procurement is paramount. Therefore, where two requirements—military manpower versus production—conflict, production should have priority."

National selective service headquarters, he said, was vitally interested in keeping key men in essential jobs. He emphasized, however, that all occupational deferments would be decided on an individual basis and by local boards.

CHILDREN ARE GIVEN RIDE ON FIRE TRUCK

Fire Chief Frank Roddy gave the children of the Sherrouse School a ride on a fire engine Monday morning as part of their fire prevention instruction being conducted by the local fire department.

The instructions were the third of a series given by the department, Chief Roddy stated. The first two were at Barkdull Faulk School and Lida Benton.

"This program is an annual one in which we attempt to impress the school children with ways and means in the prevention of fire and also the workings of our department," the chief stated.

FRED FUTCH TRIAL SCHEDULED TUESDAY

The trial of Fred Futch, who with eight other persons, is charged with mail fraud in connection with an alleged fraudulent count of votes in the state primary election of the Union parish clerk of court, is scheduled Tuesday.

Counsel for the government in the trial of Futch will be John Patin, assistant United States district attorney. The trial is expected to come before Judge Ben C. Dawkins.

Set for trial on three occasions previously, the case was continued to Tuesday, due to the trial of Leon C. Weiss.

SHREVEPORTER SUCCUMBS AT 70

Jacob C. Simon, Widely Known Business Man, Dies On Train

SHREVEPORT, Oct. 28.—(AP)—Jacob C. Simon, 70, well known Shreveport business man, was fatally stricken while on a train with his wife and daughter, Miss Therese Simon, about two hours after leaving Los Angeles, Calif., for their Shreveport home, Sunday night, according to a message received here.

Mr. Simon had spent the last two months in Los Angeles, where it was his custom to go each year to escape hay fever.

The body will be brought to Shreveport.

Mr. Simon is survived by his widow, the former Annette Dreyfuss; two daughters, Miss Janice Simon, who is now on a visit to New York City, and Miss Therese Simon, all of Shreveport; one brother, Harry Simon of Los Angeles.

Mr. Simon was born in New Orleans. He came to Shreveport when about 15 years old and had resided here since that time.

Mr. Simon was connected with the Dreyfuss Wholesale Dry Goods Company for about 45 years. He was its former president and was with the company when it went out of business several years ago. At the time of his death he was vice-president of the First Federal Savings and Loan Association of Shreveport, a former director of the First National Bank and a former president of the B'Nai Zion congregation. Mr. Simon also was prominent in Masonic circles.

AXIS PARTNERS MEET IN ITALY

Bologna station was decorated with Italian and Nazi flags, great bunches of flowers and potted palms.

The Germans were greeted by provincial authorities and by the Duke of Bergamo, commander of the army corps area. Members of the Nazi colony in Bologna in uniform also were drawn up at the station platform.

Hitler arrived by special train at 11 a.m. (3 a.m. CST.)

General Field Marshal Wilhelm Keitel, chief of the German high command, accompanied Hitler.

Hitler was greeted by Mussolini, Italian Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano and Von Ribbentrop.

The fuehrer and Il Duce, standing in an open car, were followed by their foreign ministers down the road to the Palazzo Vecchia where they were scheduled to talk.

Don't Be A Sponge; They're All Wet

One of the best warnings about Fifth Column activities to appear lately is in a little booklet issued by the Veterans of Foreign Wars. These Americans, all of whom have known war at first hand, have compiled a little treatise setting forth clearly and circumstantially just how various Nazi, Fascist, Communist and native quasi-Fascist organizations work, and through whom.

Without hysteria, the writers warn all Americans to be on the alert for such activities, native and imported, and if they seem really subversive to report them to proper authority for investigation. Nothing is gained, and much lost by amateur vigilante attempts to remedy these situations. Injustice is more likely to result than justice.

But there is one thing all of us can do. That is to stop and think when people babble into our ears. The keynote of all Fifth Column activity is to create confusion in the minds of the people. As a farmer's first step is to plow and harrow his field before he plants his crop, so the Fifth Columnist first plows and harrows the mind of his victim, making it ready for his seeds of discontent.

"They begin, usually," cautions the V. F. W. pamphlet, "by attacking the Jews, whom they regard as the weakest minority in the land. . . . The objective, as always, is to divide the population by creating hatred, animosity and prejudice. Once the cracks in national unity begin to appear, the offensive doubles its forces and strikes next at the Catholics. Soon the labor unions feel the brunt of the Fifth Column attack. Then comes the system of private enterprise. And finally, the forms and traditions of democratic government itself are assaulted."

That is a fair outline of the approach. This does not mean that anyone who speaks to you in such vein is necessarily a Fifth Columnist. But it does mean that thoughtless talk along such lines serves the same purpose.

The remedy? Use your head. To all talk appealing to prejudice and fear, to hatred and despair, ask yourself the sober question, "Is there any sense to this?" If there isn't, tell yourself so with electric force—and answer back.

Don't be a sponge, absorbing everything fed to it. Think. A sponge can absorb a great amount of slop, but after it has done so, it's all wet.

Significant Removal

While not much reliance is to be placed on European war reports, there seems to be some substance to the dispatch emanating from several points in Europe that 200,000 German children are being removed from Berlin, Hamburg and other large German cities to an area in Rumania where preparations are being speeded to house them.

This is significant for two reasons. One is that it substantiates to a considerable degree British claims of extensive damage to German cities by Royal Air Force raids. The other reason is that removal of German children to Rumania would seem to cancel any likelihood that the Balkans are marked for a major theater of war between Germany and Russia, or between the Axis powers and any allies of Britain.

In Rumania the children would be as far away as they could be from the raids of the Royal Air Force and the Nazis have no expectation of Russian air raids on Germany either now or in the future.

The only apparent prospect of any back door raids on Germany from the air is the establishment of British raid bases in the Mediterranean when Britain gets enough planes. That is probably one reason why Hitler and Mussolini are now scheming for control of the Mediterranean area.

Everybody's Parade

There is a great disposition among people to get the most out of life, and it is a lucky thing for them that they are never called on to definitize the comprehension of their desires, for they are seeking a complex answer to a vague need rather than finding themselves in the expression of a healthy want. It has often been said that life is an adventure, but many persons miss it inevitably because they look only for the highlights of living and thus their living becomes subjective.

There are no disproportions in life that positively prevent that larger expression of self which is really living. Even those who are dying gamely and sacrificing wholeheartedly are more alive than the roundly inhibited. Age can be more youthful than youth that misses the shining moment that is life.

Many self-centered individuals who want to get something out of life, fail to realize that life is a gallant procession that should be joined rather than watched. For those who only watch, the procession is always past. To live really means to do something real. That is the simple essence of the advanture.

One A Minute

No, it's not what you think. We know the commodity of which the rate of production used to be set at one a minute. Fools.

But this is 1940. And now the one-a-minute quota has been applied to a new machine that turns out shell forgings at that rate. The machines are simple and inexpensive to build, and a goodly line of them ought to be able to whip out the basic part of artillery shells in the kind of time needful in basic wars, when they are fired almost like machine-gun bullets.

Yes, the production machine is getting under way. The United States is in deadly earnest about this preparedness thing. Any foreign observer who thinks otherwise automatically puts himself in the class of the old-time one-a-minute production, not the new.

THE DICTATOR AT HOME

Dictator (getting out of bed).—Draw me my tub!

Wife.—Don't be funny. You're big enough to turn faucets.

Dictator.—I'm not accustomed to having my orders disobeyed in that way.

Wife.—Well, that's just too bad. Quiet, please. I want to sleep a little longer.

Dictator (from the bathroom).—Ella, where's my shaving cream?

Wife.—How would I know where your shaving cream is? And don't yell so!

Dictator.—I put it on the second shelf and it ain't here. I've looked everywhere.

Wife (getting up and finding it right on the second shelf).—Right under your nose, yet you couldn't find it. And you're the fellow who is always finding new outlets to the sea!

Dictator (dressing).—I think I'll wear my blue uniform of an aviation general today.

Wife.—That funny getup!

Dictator (hurt).—I don't think it's funny.

Wife.—Of course not. If you did you wouldn't wear it in all those newsreel pictures. Put on your tan uniform of a cavalry colonel. That ain't so hot, either, but it fits.

Dictator.—I'm wearing my blue uniform!

Wife.—Okay. If you want to look like a monkey, it's your own business.

Dictator.—The trouble with you if you don't know a good uniform when you see one. I know style, I do. I know class. I know distinction. (But he puts on the tan uniform.)

Wife (at breakfast).—You've got egg on your chin, honeykins.

Dictator.—Don't call me honeykins. These eggs are too soft, anyhow.

Wife.—They're four-minute eggs.

Dictator.—They couldn't have been boiled over three minutes.

Wife.—Four minutes!

Dictator.—Three minutes!

Wife.—Four!

Dictator.—Three! And what are you laughing at?

Wife.—I'm laughing at your inadequacy in debate. If you can't even win an argument over eggs, how do you get away with all those arguments over the destiny of nations?

Dictator.—Enough of this! I'm going down to the office where I can find some respect.

Wife.—On your way home tonight, stop at the butcher's and bring me some liver for the cat.

Dictator.—I don't know that I will be coming that way.

Wife.—You heard me. Liver for the cat.

Dictator.—Oh, all right. But, listen, have dinner early. I've got a big conference on about affairs in the Mediterranean.

Wife.—Not tonight. We've a dinner and bridge engagement at the Spurgeons.

Dictator.—You'll have to call it off.

Dictator (hopelessly).—Gee, Ella, can't I ever have my own way in anything?

Hi—I hear the idea of an embargo on scrap iron to Japan originated with some of those brain trusters. They think it a smart way to get back all the scrap we sold Japan without paying for it.

Our Children

By ANGELO PATRI

ACTIVITY ENCOURAGES DISCIPLINE

The question most often asked of me by teachers and parents is "How can I discipline this child?" That question is a symptom of a deep-seated difficulty. There is a struggle going on between the child and his leader and that ought not to be so. Differences of opinion are natural, but a prolonged struggle, the child on one side and the elder on the other, is indicative of misunderstanding on both sides.

There is always the possibility of physical ailment in the rebellious child. He may be unable to follow good leadership because of his condition. He does not understand this, nor does his teacher. Such a child should be thoroughly examined by a physician and the prescribed treatment followed to the letter. After that, a study of the child must be made.

Most of the trouble is with children in their early teens. They are neither children nor adolescents but a mixture of both. They are feeling their way toward growth. Nature provided great energy for this survey of theirs and it is our business, our duty, to direct and guide and control that energy toward the right end for the child.

Every child is born with a certain pattern of life within him. If that pattern is followed and allowed to develop itself normally and fully the child will be happy and successful. Unless this is done between the years of twelve and sixteen it is rarely done at all. The oversight is seen in our steadily increasing number of delinquents. Delinquents are boys and girls who have nothing to do and no place to go that belongs to them.

What belongs to them is what they see, understand and accept. Book-minded children find no difficulty in the book-controlled school. The great group of actively growing children are interested in other things apart from books. They want to know how things work, how to make them, how to use them for their own pleasure and profit. They want to make use of things. They are not interested in sitting still and listening to the teacher talk, or to some child recite the words of the book. They are interested in doing something about what is in the book, on the street, in the house and in the community.

When they are not allowed to do things they love to do, like acting, playing a musical instrument, making a bit of furniture, conducting an experiment in the laboratory on their own, creating something that they feel rising within them, they look for that chance outside school, outside home, outside the law. Then they are delinquents. Then the home and the school ask, "How shall we discipline these children?"

Give them plenty to do. Give them daily work. Hold them to a high standard of work and accomplishment by precept and example and opportunity. Make them feel useful, wanted, welcome, and keep them busy.

A busy child is a happy child and a happy child is a good child. The discipline problem disappears when a child finds his work. Help him to that end and he will discipline himself far better than anybody else could hope to do.

Mr. Patri has prepared a leaflet entitled, "Trouble With Number Tables," in which he explains an easy way to help children improve in arithmetic. Send for it, addressing your request to Mr. Angelo Patri, Child Psychology Department of the Monroe News-Star, Postoffice Box 150, Times Square Station, New York, N. Y. Enclose a self-addressed, stamped (3-cent) envelope.

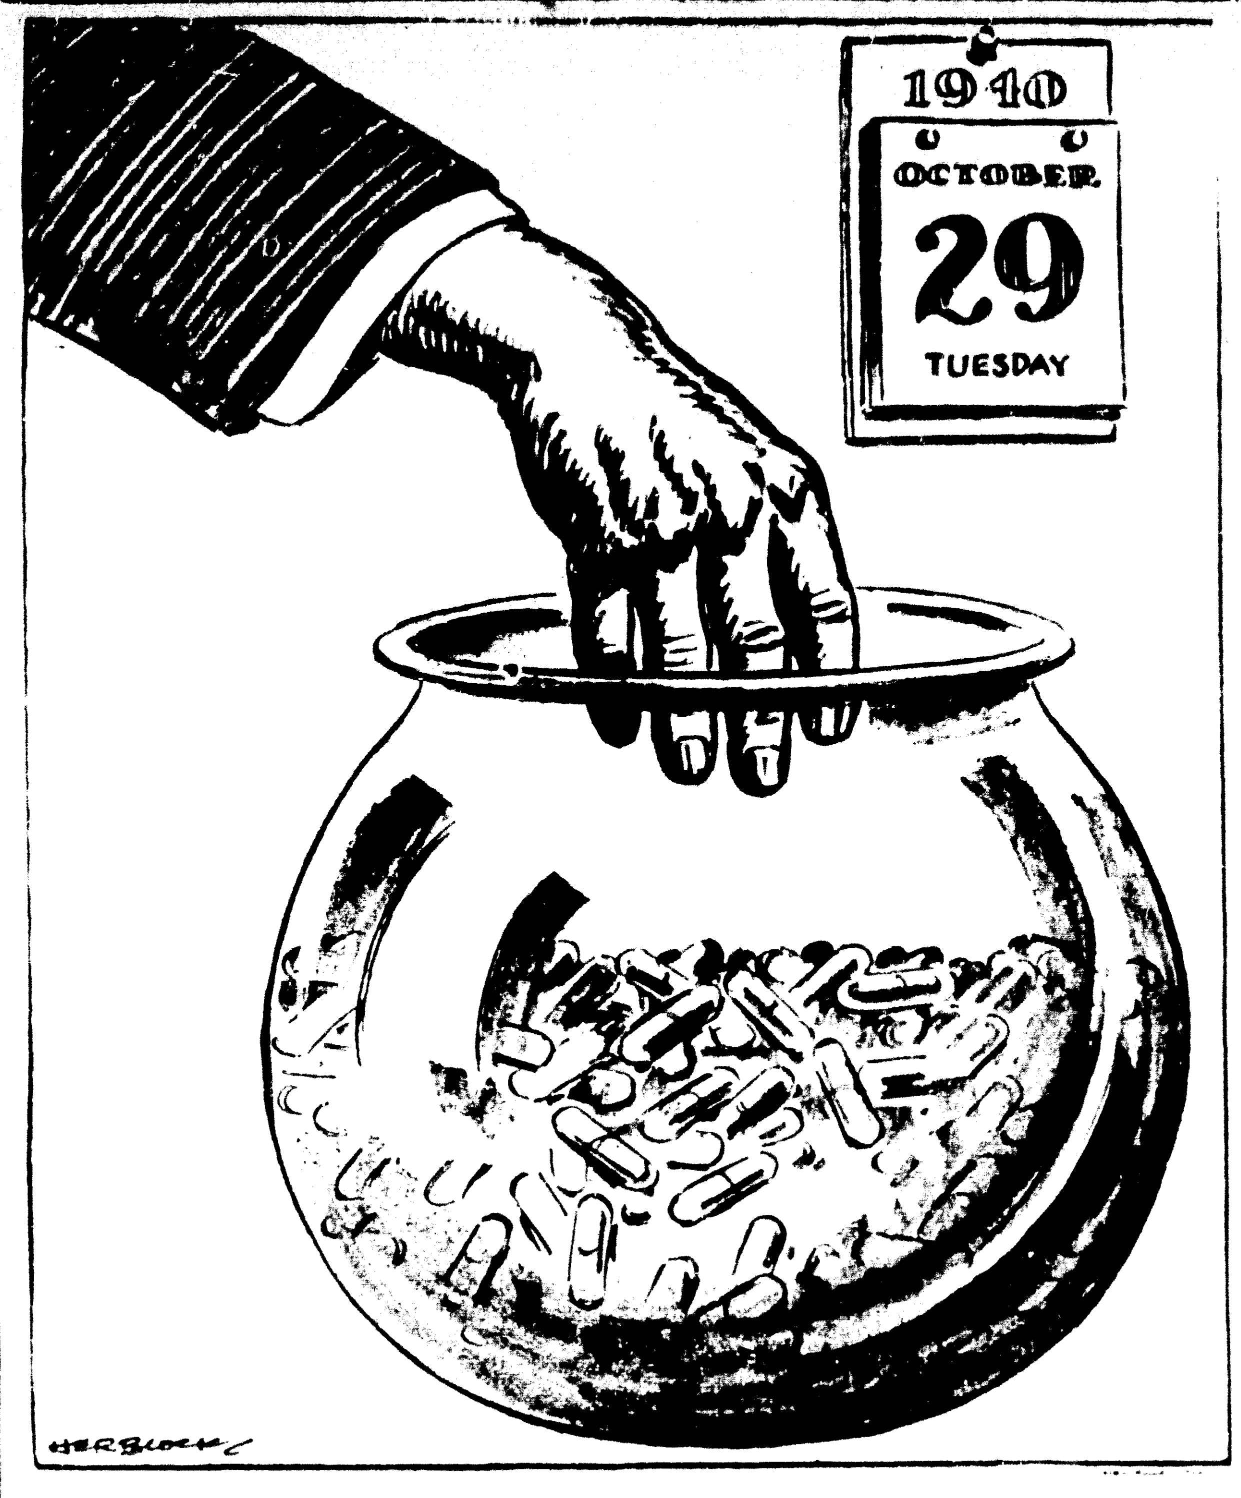
SOME BITTER PILLS FOR THE DICTATORS



Washington Daybook

——By Jack Stinnett——

WASHINGTON—Just on the chance that you think Washington never talks about anything but war and politics, I'll itemize some of the capital chatter that hasn't anything to do with either. For instance, Washington wonders—

If Bing Crosby, who turned up in a benefit golf exhibition here recently, isn't about as a good a sport and sportsman as Bagdad on the Pacific ever turned out. He shoots 18 holes in the seventies, signing 22 autographs between each stroke.

If there really is any possibility that the supreme court will come down with a decision making it unlawful for the $1.98 boys to copy those veddy, veddy exclusive models turned out by the $99.98 designers of ladies' chapeaux. There is an appeal before the tribunal now calling for some kind of a ruling.

Which members of local society guffawed and which ones gasped at the shower of bawdy patter coming from the National stage on the season's first "first night." The play was "Suzanna and the Elders." It is a story of a socialistic utopia of the 19th century, and while the failure of socialism in such efforts as Brook Farm occupies much of the dialogue, so do such matters as "breeding committees" to instruct young folks how to bring forth a race of supermen. Jack Kirkland, who still has "Tobacco Road," produced "Suzanna," but it is far from that bad—or that good.

Envoy's Daughters A 'Hit'

How soon Charlie Chaplin will get here in "The Dictator." And whether "The Baker's Wife" isn't the most delightful foreign movie ever shown here.

When they are going to get through with that unsightly sewer construction work in otherwise beautifully autumn-hued Rock Creek park.

If the Boyd sisters, Mildred, Edith and Elena, daughters of the ambassador of Panama, might not make as big a hit as the Andrews sisters, Laverne, Patty and Maxene, if the Boyds ever took up one of several offers to go into the movies or on the stage. Boyds and Andrews met here the other day for a little community sing.

Football, Too

If the Redskins, the capital's own national pro football team, really will win the league championship. (Just in case you think pro football is a minor item around here, the Redskins average more than 30,000 spectators each game—and that's about one person in every 22 of Washington's population.)

If there ever before was a capital party like that given for Sister Pascaline de St. Simon to celebrate her 76th birthday and the fiftieth anniversary of the day she started begging alms. She has stood outside the government buildings in all kinds of weather since before the Spanish-American war. The party was a fine affair. There were flowers and food and singing and many guests. But Sister Pascaline was not there. The vows of the Little Sisters of the Poor forbade such pomp and frivolity. Throughout the party, she stayed—and helped—in the kitchen.

HOME ECONOMICS CLUB ELECTION

MONTEREY, La., Oct. 28—(Special)—The Home Economics club of Monterey High School elected the following officers at a recent meeting:

Virginia Dale, president; Estelle Greene, vice-president; Maureen Cross, secretary.

Program committees from each class, as appointed by the president are:

Seniors: Luella Morace, Clara Beard, Edna Blount; Juniors, Vera Crane, Maureen Cross, Estelle Greene. Sophomores: Muriel Cross, Eris Dale, Aleen Greene, Mercedes Holland. Freshmen: Imogene Burley, Needra Greene, Mildred Wheeler.

Ten times more passenger mileage is carried on highways than in all other forms of travel combined.

Mrs. Angie Taylor of Columbia is a guest this week of her daughter, Mrs. F. C. Harp.

Miss Bess Burch, who has been enjoying a visit for the past week with her mother in Shreveport, returned to Monroe this morning for a brief visit with friends before leaving for Denver, Colo., where she will spend the winter.

Mrs. J. T. Neill, mother of Rev. W. E. Neill, and niece, Miss Laura Bess Burdwell of Dallas, Tex., left last night after a pleasant visit in the Neill home here.

Rotarian William Hudson of the Shreveport Rotary club extended an urgent invitation from his organization to the local club to go to Shreveport tomorrow as their guests at both luncheon and the fair. The invitation was extended at the weekly luncheon of the local club at Hotel Monroe this noon.

H. J. Fernandez, traffic manager of this city, will attend one of the most important sessions of the state public service commission at Shreveport next Saturday, when many cases are to be heard.

PEYTON FAMILY HOLDS REUNION

JENA, Oct. 28—(Special)—One of the most outstanding affairs of recent community interest was the family reunion at the seventy-first birthday celebration of Jim B. Peyton. Friends and relatives honored him with a special birthday dinner on that day.

Jim Peyton, prominent citizen of LaSalle parish for many years, formerly held the positions of deputy sheriff and parish jailer. He is the father of ten children, grandfather of 27 children, and great grandfather of three children.

Those attending the dinner were Mrs. Lucy Webb, Oscar Peyton, Mrs. Maggie McGuffee, Mrs. Jesse Parker, Mrs. Nellie Chapman, Mrs. Myrtle Hodges, Mrs. Inez Renfrow, James Baxter Peyton, Jr., Mrs. Katie Bush, and their respective families; Miss Mildred Peyton, Jim Holland, Houston, Tex., and Rev. and Mrs. Finley W. Tinnin, Jena.

ALLERGIC TO SKUNKS

KANE, Pa.—This haven for hay fever sufferers is in need of a little relief itself.

With the annual invasion of skunks [illegible], a group of merchants appealed to State Game Protector William [illegible] to rid the borough of the pests.

Prowling the streets at night, skunks have caused extensive damage and are becoming an increasingly difficult problem.

OKLAHOMA CITY—Detective Nathan Baker [illegible] looking for the handcuffs [illegible] who wore them.

He put the nippers on a burglary suspect [illegible] flipped a handkerchief [illegible]. Releasing it [illegible] Baker jumped out to pick it up.

The suspect hopped out the other door.

WHEW! YOU TOO?

LOS ANGELES—The judge granted Lois Tex a divorce from Ralph Tex and then heard the bailiff announce "Tex versus Tex."

"We just heard that one," observed the judge.

"These are two other Texes," the bailiff answered.

The judge legally parted Fay and Clifford Tex.

'ROUND ABOUT RELAY

EUREKA, Ill.—Two relatives of Otto Wagner, Eureka merchant, live 20 miles apart in Rumania, but they use him as a go-between in their messages.

Wagner said he received a letter from his brother in Rumania, asking if he had received any word of their nephew at Cernauti, 20 miles from the brother's home. Wagner sent a cablegram to his nephew and the answer came back "Good health," and was relayed to the brother.

SPEAKS TO STUDENTS

TALLULAH, Oct. 28—(Special)—Dr. Mary Mims, community sociologist of L. S. U., delivered an inspirational address to two groups of students of the Tallulah High school here Thursday on "Opportunities of the Youth of Today," in which she stressed the importance of citizenship and striving for a goal. Her visit was sponsored by the Home Art club of the high school.

Jimmie Fidler In Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 28.—There was more than met the eye in Dorothy Lamour's hasty trip east. She conferred with Para execs, and threatens a walk-out if her roles and pay-check don't improve. . . . Charlie Chaplin will be guest of the White House before he treks west. . . . Mrs. Paul Muni is recovering from a serious operation that could have been fatal.

Double your bets that Judy Garland and Orchestra Leader Dave Rose will splice after a long engagement. . . . The Broadway Shuberts are dangling a stage deal before Mae West's eyes. . . . Has Cary Grant added a diamond engagement ring to Barbara Hutton's jewel collection? . . . Mrs. John "Liz" Whitney will care for Lady Mountbatten's two children for duration of war—longer if necessary.

Whew! Will Hays has warned all studios not to seek draft exemption for any stars, no matter how big—because Hollywood couldn't stand the black eye. . . . Eddie Albert is moonstruck again, this time over Nina Stuhl, a wow looker. . . . Did that new $25,000 blazer Paulette Goddard is flashing on easterners come from Charlie?

Errol Flynn, Hawaii struck, is seeking a studio arrangement making it possible for him (and Lili?) to live there and commute to Hollywood for three pictures a year (like John Halliday's been doing for years). . . . Babe Ruth is at the confab stage with WB for a series of baseball shorts. . . . So Lionel and John Barrymore are pals again after an estrangement that began in 1936 F. B. (Elaine Barrie). John, by the way, is dating Lionel's nurse.

Can it be that Hollywood is at last waking up to the fact that authors are important cogs in picture-making? At 20th Century-Fox, a research worker, in an idle moment, began checking the screen contributions of the late Zane Grey. To his amazement he discovered that Grey had authored the stories of [illegible] pictures which earned a total profit of $[illegible], and that not one of his plots ever flopped at the box office. Studio execs, when apprised of these findings, were so overcome that they broke down completely. They've ordered that "Western Union," currently in production, shall be [illegible] dedicated to its author.

Mutterings: Maybe movie stars are on a higher social plane than prize fighters, but they're just as apt to get punch-drunk from too many hits. Secret ambition: To own a girls' finishing school—with Clark Gable and Robert Taylor heading the faculty. Ode to mayhem: "But seriously, Mr. Colman, don't you think you're a bit old for such romantic roles?" Growl: When will Hollywood pretties learn that lipstick smears on cigaret butts are fatal to glamour? Nervous itch: To shout, "This is where I came in" when Jimmy Cagney swings that inevitable right and floors the twice-as-big villain. I don't care what Hitler plans, Hollywood friendships will remain strictly on the gold standard.

One minute interview: Wayne Morris answers: "What will you do if your number is drawn in the conscription?" "I'll go, of course. Why shouldn't I? Naturally, if I—or any actor—am engaged in a picture at the moment (Wayne is in Paramount's "I Wanted Wings"), I assume I'll be permitted and expected to finish that job. There has been talk of exempting actors because entertainment is important to national morale. I think it's more important to morale for an actor, who is in the public light and therefore an example, to do what other men are expected to do without protest."

The Hit Parade (this column recommends): Screen: Cecil B. De Mille's "Northwest Mounted Police," huge and lusty. . . . Book: Max [illegible] "I Cover the Waterfront" [illegible] Miller's "Harbor of the Sun," a ray of peaceful sunshine in these days of threatening war clouds. . . . Disc: Tommy Tucker's "Johnny Peddler" (Okeh), a cinch to [illegible]. . . . Magazine Story: "Lightning in the Night" (Liberty); [illegible] if you aren't [illegible]. . . . Song: "Moon Over Burma" [illegible] a musical [illegible]. . . . Magazine Picture Layout: John Barrymore's 12 Most Intriguing Women (Look), with John's sensational [illegible]. . . . Radio: Fibber McGee and Molly (NBC, Tuesday) [illegible] as fast and funny as last season.

Nat Pendleton reports being preceded into a local theater the other night by a man, woman and their sixteen-year-old son. "How far down, please?" asked the usher. "About half way," answered the woman, "and just [illegible] will do for us. Our little son prefers to run up and down the aisle."

But you know how it is on subways. You sit down and get to thinking about things and sometimes you change your mind. That's what Mrs. Aronoff did.

"No," she decided, "I won't do that. I'll take him back home and bury him in the garden."

So she picked up her kitty and got off the train, and got on another going in the opposite direction. Then she walked around the corner to her home. She got out a little hoe and dug a little grave in the shadow of the gladioli. Then she unwrapped poor kitty, and you can imagine her consternation when kitty turned out to be a leg of lamb.

It came to her, then, that a fellow on the subway had a package that looked just like hers.

The Columbia people have brought out an album of records by the late Bessie Smith, "Empress of the Blues," who came out of the South weighing 200 pounds some 25 years ago to become the most widely advertised blues singer in America. At one time her income reached $2,000 a week. Bessie's popularity went into a decline shortly before she died three years ago, notably because Ethel Waters came along at that time and eclipsed just about every blues singer in the [illegible]. The interesting point about [illegible] released is that some of them have never been heard by the public. They constitute a collection [illegible] of American [illegible] and [illegible].

NATIONAL FOOTBALL RACE NARROWED BY UPSETS

THERE'S CHANCE MORE WILL FALL THIS WEEK-END

November Will Bring The Decisive Games Of 1940 Season

By Hugh S. Fullerton, Jr.

NEW YORK, Oct. 28—(AP)—It's a football tradition going way back to the days of long-haired linemen and turtle-neck sweaters that November brings the decisive games of the season.

There's nothing to change that idea in this week's card, although September and October games already have eliminated all but a dozen or two teams as contenders for the national crown. There's a chance that about half the survivors will go down this week-end.

The weekly survey shapes up something like this:

East—Cornell's 71-7 triumph over Ohio State advanced the Big Red team a little farther along the national title trail. With Penn [illegible] by a 14-0 loss to Michigan, Cornell is the only "Ivy League" team in the national picture except possibly Navy. The Midshipmen looked good in beating Yale 21-0 but they haven't faced Cornell's [illegible]. Next Saturday the Ithacans figure to beat Columbia, eliminated from the undefeated class by a 3-0 [illegible] defeat by Syracuse, but [illegible] be by a big margin. Navy's encounter with Penn should be a [illegible] for both teams.

[illegible] Boston College, also hurt by a [illegible] its strongest foe in three weeks when it plays Manhattan [illegible] of Duquesne last Friday [illegible] over New York University, takes on Syracuse. Lafayette [illegible] conqueror of Army, and Penn State [illegible] beat Temple [illegible] Washington and Jefferson and [illegible] respectively.

Taking [illegible] the Army-Notre Dame, Harvard-Princeton and Yale-Brown games [illegible] among the [illegible] Army [illegible] Dartmouth [illegible] Boston [illegible] Holy Cross [illegible]

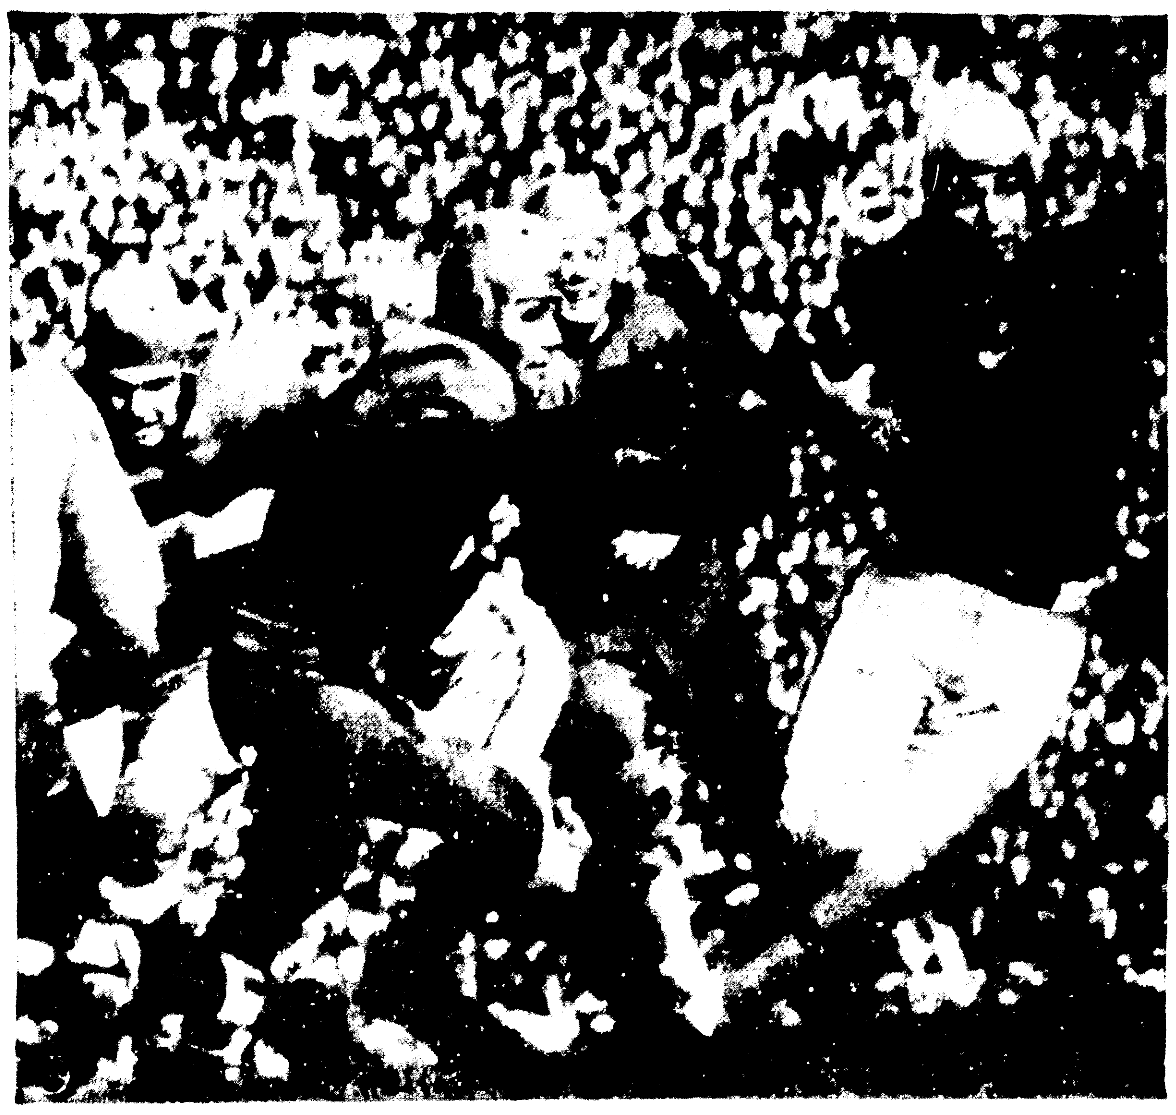
[illegible] Fordham [illegible] St. Mary's of California [illegible] Marquette, [illegible] Lee, [illegible] day, George Washington [illegible] and Villanova [illegible]

Midwest—[illegible] cates, [illegible] prove [illegible] encounter [illegible] Indiana [illegible] and the [illegible] which [illegible] ready.

Other Big Ten games this week are comparatively [illegible] Iowa vs. Purdue [illegible] Wisconsin, Ohio State vs. [illegible] and Minnesota vs. [illegible]

The Big Six, however, [illegible] Oklahoma [illegible] Nebraska [illegible] Missouri [illegible] Iowa State [illegible] The winner [illegible]

MINNESOTA TAKES IOWA, 34 TO 6



In the game between Minnesota and Iowa, held in Minneapolis, Bill Green, 47, of Iowa, gets off for a touchdown. Final score 34 to 6, favor of Minnesota.

CHICAGO BEARS IN TOP SHAPE IN WEST LOOP

May Have 'Super Team'; Washington Holds To Winning Streak

By Tom Siler

CHICAGO, Oct. 28—(AP)—All the returns are not in, but it begins to look as if the Chicago Bears might be football's "super team" after all.

The mighty Bears commanded nationwide attention a month ago when they laid a resounding 41-10 haymaker on the far-famed championship Green Bay Packers. A subsequent setback at the hands of the under-rated Chicago Cardinals quickly deflated them.

However, since then the Bears, growing stronger each week, have won four in a row, the latest a decisive 37 to 21 triumph over the New York Giants Sunday. Thus the Bears have crushed both the National pro champions and the Eastern titleholders although Owner-Coach George Halas admits the club still has to reach its efficiency peak.

Jack Sutherland, Brooklyn coach, says the Bears are the greatest collection of football players he ever saw, and Dutch Clark, Cleveland coach, concurs in this extravagant estimate.

The Bears poured over four touchdowns and a 52-yard field goal for a 20-0 lead over the Giants before the New Yorkers rallied. Gary Famiglietti scored once, Harry Clark twice and Ray McLean once before Walt Nielsen hit passing for the Easterners late in the second period. The Bears eased off to one touchdown in the second half while a belated aerial attack netted the Giants two more.

This week the Bears engage the Packers in Chicago in a contest that should decide whether the Bears will have a waltz or a real tussle for Western honors the remainder of the season.

Nobody has tabbed Washington as a "super team" but they keep right on winning, chalking up their sixth straight victory Sunday, maintaining an undefeated record with a 20-14 [illegible] over Detroit. [illegible] off a [illegible] run in the fourth period [illegible]

Green Bay, playing at Milwaukee, breezed to a 24 to 3 victory over Pittsburgh [illegible] The Chicago Cardinals defeated Cleveland 17 to 7. [illegible]

Brooklyn moved [illegible] of New York in the Eastern division with a 21 to 7 decision Saturday night over Philadelphia. [illegible]

The five weekend games drew a total of 162,[illegible], a throng of [illegible] swarming for the Bears-New York battle.

NEW YORK, Oct. 28—(AP)—Ragtime news review:

Clark Shaughnessy is still the toast. . . . Of football fans from coast to coast. . . . And if they were to call the roll. . . . They'd nominate him from the bowl. . . . The way Tom Harmon treated Penn. . . . You'd think that Reagan wasn't in. . . . And Minnesota bugs should thank. . . . The touchdown team of Smith and Franck. . . . The Texas Ags are rolling on. . . . (Appears they've got the coon and gone) . . . Although Jess Neely, famous dice. . . . Keeps shooting naturals down at Rice. . . . As forecast, Dr. Miller's Yalers. . . . Couldn't match our doughty Sailors. . . . Ohio State bowed to Cornell. . . . And did it very, very well.

Michigan Stops Reagan But Penn Fails To Halt Tommy

NEW YORK, Oct. 28—(AP)—Michigan stopped Pennsylvania's Frank Reagan last Saturday but Penn couldn't stop Michigan's Tommy Harmon. So today Harmon is farther ahead than ever in the national football scoring race.

His one touchdown and two extra points against the Quakers brought his season's total to 87 points—12 touchdowns, as many conversions and a field goal. Reagan remained in second with 61 points but his hold on that spot was threatened by a couple of small college players who just broke into the list, Thurmon Jones of Abilene Christian in Texas with 57 points and Charles Larson of Culver-Stockton in Missouri with 56.

Utah [illegible] played a scoreless tie against Idaho, meets Brigham Young in this week's other conference game. Colorado College, unbeaten Rocky Mountain Conference leader, entertains Western State, 13-0 winner over little Regis.

Pacific Coast: Although Stanford preserved its unbeaten-untied status by conquering Southern California 21-7, the Indians can't be crowned champions until after their game with Washington November 9. The Huskies just scraped past California, 7-0, and will have a week's rest while Stanford plays U. C. L. A. at Los Angeles. The Uclans haven't won a game all season but haven't been beaten by more than one touchdown, losing 7-0 to Oregon State last week. Other games Saturday are California-Oregon State, Idaho-Washington State and Oregon-Montana.

[illegible] Ray Bennett, hard-blocking [illegible] Junie Hovious, [illegible] triple-threater, Lee [illegible] fullback all in the starting [illegible] lineup, Frank Thomas, end, who succeeded injured [illegible], Bill Eubanks, a brilliant pass receiver, Tackle Bob Berryhill, Guards Phil Fyfe and Oscar [illegible] and Center Dan Wood.

Mississippi State, with a veteran team, has used sophomores sparingly, but at least four newcomers have won regular reserve assignments from Coach Allyn McKeen. They are John (Bonnie) Black, fleet wingback and alternate passer, Gladney White, six-foot-three inch tackle, Charles Yancey, 17-year-old fullback, and George Vardaman, glue-fingered right end.

Unpredictable Tulane has four sophomores among the regulars. Lou Thomas, left halfback who does everything but punt, took first-string spot away from three older men, including two monogram wearers. Fullback James (Bubber) Ely, held out of competition last year, gained consistently against Rice and appears to be improving rapidly. Walter McDonald, 200-pound quarterback, took a first team berth away from three more experienced players with vicious blocking and fine defensive play, but recently has been hampered by injuries. In the line, Coach Red Dawson started William (Red) Hornick, 200-pound sophomore end, against Rice and saw the youngster play a bangup game.

Bernie Moore, whose Louisiana State squad is more than half sophomores, thinks 165-pound Tailback Adrian Dodson is one of the best in the conference. Leading the league in scoring and yardage from runs and passes, he is the Tigers' only full-fledged triple threat newcomer.

Best of the Bengal fullbacks is Walter Gorinski, 185-pounder, rated by Moore as the best sophomore fullback he ever has coached at L. S. U. Besides plunging, he is an exceptional blocker, sure on defense, a good pass-receiver and possibly the best punter on the squad.

Other sophomores who have shown well include Phil Bruno, 200-pound quarterback, a fine blocker; Jack Barrett, slashing 228-pound tackle; Walter Barnes, 224-pound place-kicker who has taken over left tackle and Willie Miller, hard-running right guard used regularly on interference.

DURHAM, N. C.—(AP)—A Durham cafe was crowded when a tall, bearded farmer demanded a 10-cent cut of chewing tobacco. A clerk finally heard the order, hastily grabbed a plug, rammed it into a sack and handed it to the farmer, who departed.

Two minutes later in stormed the farmer. In his hand he clutched a square block of chocolate candy.

ORLEANS AS CENTER OF SOUTH AMERICAN AIR SYSTEM IS SEEN

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 28—(AP)—Belief that New Orleans might become the hub of a system of air lines linking the United States with Central and South America over a direct cross-Gulf of Mexico route was expressed today after successful completion of a survey flight.

Lowell Yerex, New Zealand-born World War flier who ran $25 and an old monoplane into a passenger and air freight system linking six Central American countries, led a cross-gulf flight from Guatemala City to New Orleans in five hours and 36 minutes.

Yerex' TACA system, Transportes Aereos Centro-Americanos, was bought several weeks ago by American Transport Airlines, Inc.

NEW YORK STOCKS

By Victor Eubank

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—(AP)—An early downward drift in today's stock market lost momentum after midday and initial declines running to a point or more for leaders were reduced or cancelled in many cases at the close.

A slight touch of depression in the forenoon was attributed partly to the overseas news involving extension of the European war to Greece and fears of upsetting repertussions elsewhere in the Mediterranean.

Dealings, moderately active in the first hour, slowed appreciably until the latter portion of the session. Transfers were around 500,000 shares.

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—(AP)—The stock market today started the new week with mildly reactionary tendencies.

While dealings were relatively light from the opening on, and weakness a rarity, declines of fractions to a point or so were well distributed near the fourth hour.

Wall Street's more hopeful views of politics and business, brokers said, seemed to be offset to some extent marketwise by extension of the European conflict to Greece and fears that further foreign upsets were in the making. The important factor, it was suggested, was the question of whether the United States would become involved.

Bonds and commodities were uneven.

Among stocks Allied Chemical dropped 4 on a few sales. In arrears most of the time were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, General Motors, Westinghouse, Union Carbide, Kennecott, Anaconda, Western Union, and N. Y. Central. Some of these eventually improved.

Ahead now and then were National Acme, Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck, United Aircraft, Goodyear, International Nickel and Texas Corporation.

Sugar

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—(AP)—Trade buying and covering readily absorbed hedging and profit taking in domestic sugar futures today. A firm raw market was a helpful factor. At the start of the last hour prices were 1 higher; March 1.95 and May 1.99.

World futures lost 1-2 point in quiet dealings. Light liquidation satisfied a mixed demand. Dec. was .78 and March .84.

Raw offerings were modest and priced at 2.88 and 2.90 cents.

Refined locally held at 4.35 cents.

YOU LOOK LIKE A BUM -- YOU'RE FROWSY -- TEN DAYS KITCHEN POLICE! -- THAT'S TH' WAY SOME TOUGH NON-COM WOULD TELL YOU IN THE ARMY, SO YOU'D BETTER LEARN TO BE TIDY!
I COULDN'T TALK TO MEN LIKE THAT -- I'LL HAVE TO TRY HARD TO GET ABOVE THAT SO I WON'T HAVE TO DO IT!
I NOTICE YOU DON'T MENTION STAYIN' BELOW A NON-COM SO YOU WON'T HAVE TO DO IT!
THAT'S CUZ HE CAN'T TAKE IT EITHER -- WHAT A SOLDIER! YOU DON'T WANT A GUN -- YOU WANT ETHER!

TRIED TWENTY PLACES TODAY LOOKING FOR A JOB---NO DICE-BETTER LUCK TOMORROW, EH?
YOU SAID YOU HAVE DONE MANY THINGS-YOU WERE A WAITRESS LAST, I BELIEVE YOU SAID-
A HASH-SLINGER, TO BE MORE EXACT, SAM-IT WAS A LIVING---JUST---NO OPENINGS RIGHT NOW EVEN FOR THAT, APPARENTLY-THAT IS A VERY NICE DRESS-AND MOST BECOMING-YOU HAVE TASTE-
WHOA! WHAT IS THIS? FLATTERY? OR HOW DO I GET RICH FOLKS' CLOTHES ON WAITRESS' PAY? WELL, I MADE THIS DRESS, BELIEVE IT OR NOT-
AH-THEN YOU HAVE CLEVERNESS AND SKILL AS WELL AS TASTE-
CALL IT TRAINING-IN MY TRAVELS I WORKED IN A DRESS SHOP, TOO, FOR A WHILE--ANOTHER OF MY MANY SIDES, EH?
SAM! SAM! PS-ST-I'VE GOT AN IDEA!

YOU--YOU HAD AN OPTION ON THAT DRESS SHOP NEXT DOOR ALL TH' TIME? THEN YOU HAD THIS THING ALL FIGGERED OUT WAY AHEAD O' ME-
WELL, NOT ENTIRELY, ANNIE-AND YOU HAD THE IDEA, TOO, ALL BY YOURSELF-
WELL, I DON'T ALWAYS HAVE TO BE FIRST--IF TH' IDEA WORKS-THAT'S TH' MAIN THING-
PEG IS NOT AFRAID OF WORK-THAT ALONE WILL GO FAR TO GUARANTEE THE SUCCESS OF THE VENTURE-YEAH-SHE'S A HUSTLER, ALL RIGHT--AND SHE'S GOT TASTE, TOO--AND SHE'S SMART AND SHE'S BEEN AROUND AND KNOWS TH' ANGLES--BUT WHAT ABOUT MONEY?
MONEY? WHAT ABOUT IT, ANNIE?
WHY, YOU SAID YOURSELF IT'D TAKE PLENTY DOUGH TO SWING IT---STOCK, FIXTURES, RENT, LIGHT, HEAT, ADVERTISIN'--YOU KNOW PEG HASN'T GOT A DIME-
FIRST, LET US SEE IF PEG LIKES THE IDEA-IF SHE DOES, THEN WE CAN TALK OF MONEY-

CANDIDATES OFF ON FINAL WEEK

Roosevelt, Willkie Seek Prize Blocs Of Electoral Votes

(By Associated Press)

President Roosevelt and his rival, Wendell L. Willkie, set a driving pace today for the final week of the 1940 campaign, each seeking prize blocs of electoral votes represented by populous industrial states.

Both candidates worked on crowded schedules.

Mr. Roosevelt's program included a tour of northern New Jersey and New York's five boroughs with numerous stops. The climax of his day will be a speech at Madison Square Garden tonight. New York and New Jersey have a total of 63 electoral votes. He will close the day with a major speech at Louisville, Ky.

Mr. Roosevelt served advance notice that his Madison Square Garden speech would embody much the same tactics as he used a week ago in Philadelphia, when he opened a broadside attack on what he called the "fantastic misstatements" made by his opposition in the campaign.

Willkie, traveling west to Indiana, assailed the administration anew yesterday, charging that its "housing program has bogged down" due to faulty direction and failure to acknowledge the real extent of slum clearance subsidies. He pledged to accelerate slum clearance work.

Federal Housing Administrator McDonald at Washington retorted that the Willkie pledge was "laughable in the light of the consistent and almost solid Republican voting record in congress against all efforts by the government to improve housing conditions."

In Peoria, Ill., Thomas E. Dewey, New York prosecutor, yesterday termed the administration's preparedness record "disgraceful" and charged that it had "failed in its highest duty—the defense of the United States of America."

John Cudahy, ambassador to Belgium, told a New York audience that his experiences in Europe convinced him "this is no time for changing administrations." He said the president and Secretary Hull "have been working day and night * * * to keep peace."

Secretary of Labor Perkins, on the same program, said statements that the president's reelection would bring the destruction of democracy were "intemperate, inaccurate and irresponsible."

At Knoxville, Tenn., George L. Berry, president of the International Printing Pressmen's Union and former United States senator from Tennessee, endorsed Willkie yesterday and [illegible] what he said was the "failure of the Roosevelt administration."

The Republican national committee at Washington made public a statement by James F. Barrett, A. F. of L. organizer in the South, stating that relations between the Georgia Power Company, a subsidiary of Commonwealth and Southern, the corporation Willkie headed before his nomination, and the A. F. of L. were "in the best interest of all concerned." The committee said the statement answered "the smear attacks" on Willkie's labor record.

Senator-elect Brewster, Republican, Maine, addressing a Townsend movement celebration at Long Beach, Calif., asserted yesterday that the New Deal had sought to break the Townsend old age pension movement "by a program of old age assistance that is neither honest nor accurate."

Meanwhile, the speech of C. I. O. President John L. Lewis continued to have repercussions, pro and con. Sunday produced these:

Pro:

National President Joseph Curran, two other officers and three organizers of the National Maritime Union (C. I. O.) telegraphed Lewis from New York their approval of his criticism of the Roosevelt administration, which, they charged, "has no right to expect the support of laboring millions whom it has consistently betrayed."

James Robb of Indianapolis, Indiana regional director for C. I. O., announced his personal support of the Lewis plea for Willkie's election. He made the statement after presiding at the Indiana state convention of the C. I. O. steel workers organizing committee which voted to back President Roosevelt.

Con:

Emil Rieve, C. I. O. vice-president, in a radio address called Lewis "a tragic lost leader" returning to the "outmoded philosophy of the Republican party." Rieve, who also is president of the C. I. O. Textile Workers Union, said that union's endorsement of Mr. Roosevelt "still stands."

Officers of the C. I. O. United Automobile Workers Union in Michigan formally registered "keen disappointment and disapproval" of the Lewis Willkie speech and pledged "every effort" to reelect Mr. Roosevelt.

New Hampshire and Vermont units of the C. I. O. Textile Workers Union went on record as condemning the Lewis speech, as something delivered on his own initiative without consulting the C. I. O. executive council.

F. Harold Dubord, Maine's Democratic national committeeman, asserted in a speech at Waterville, Me., that Lewis was a "false leader" and that "thousands of independent voters throughout the country will support President Roosevelt because John L. Lewis is against him."

At the same Waterville rally, Joseph P. Kennedy, Jr., son of the ambassador to Great Britain, characterized the Lewis endorsement of Willkie as a "knifing" of an administration which Kennedy credited with making America labor conscious.

In the West Virginia coal fields some unions made demands for Lewis to resign as president of the C. I. O. United Mine Workers, and several officers wired Mr. Roosevelt pledges of "unanimous support."

CANADIAN LINER, 45 PERSONS LOST

LONDON, Oct. 28. (AP) Loss of the Empress of Britain, 42,348-ton pride of the Canadian merchant fleet, with a probable death list of 45 persons, was acknowledged today by the British admiralty and war office.

Of the 643 persons on board, mostly military families and "a small number of military personnel," 598 already have been landed by warships in British ports, a joint communique reported.

German reports said the great liner was smashed by air attack Saturday and finished off by two torpedoes from a submarine early today. They described the Empress, which took King George VI and Queen Elizabeth across the Atlantic when they returned from their pilgrimage to Canada and the United States, as a "transport."

The British announcement merely said the ship had been damaged "by enemy action" and later blew up and sank while in tow.

The communique said:

"The admiralty and war office regret to announce that the S. S. Empress of Britain has been lost as the result of enemy action. The Empress of Britain was attacked by enemy aircraft and set on fire and it became necessary to abandon ship.

"Salvage operations were commenced immediately but whilst in tow the Empress of Britain subsequently blew up and sank.

"Some 598 survivors out of the total on board of 640 have already been landed by British warships. Included in this number were military families and a small number of military personnel.

"The resolute and efficient handling of the Empress of Britain's anti-aircraft defences contributed largely to the high proportion of the complement being saved."

[illegible] HEARING IN HOTEL CASE

'Double-Dip' Application Passed Indefinitely By Borah

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 28.—(AP)—A hearing on the application for a probationary sentence asked by Louis C. LeSage and J. Emory Adams, convicted with Seymour Weiss in the Bienville "double-dip" case, was indefinitely postponed today.

Federal Judge Wayne G. Borah declared such a hearing would be premature since application had been made to the supreme court for a rehearing to consider the tribunal's refusal to grant them writs of certiorari. The high court denied the men the writs last Monday.

The trio, together with Dr. James Monroe Smith, former president of Louisiana State University, and Monte E. Hart, contractor who shot himself to death last summer, were convicted here of using the mails to defraud L. S. U. out of $75,000 by selling it furniture from the Bienville which it owned.

Smith, like Weiss and Hart, was sentenced to 30 months and a $2,000 fine, but elected first to serve an 8-24 year term in the Louisiana penitentiary where he has been sent after pleading guilty to state charges.

LeSage and Adams were sentenced to a year and a day in federal prison and a $1,000 fine.

P.-T. A. HELPS CITY CHILDREN

Association Provides Milk, Medicine, Hot Lunches For Students

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is one of a series of stories on agencies which derive benefits from the Twin City Community Chest. The annual campaign of the Chest began October 24 and will run through November 7.)

For the first time the Community Chest in 1939 undertook the feeding, clothing and health-building of needy children of the Twin Cities, through the cooperation of the Parent-Teacher Association.

Approximately 500 children were fed daily through the help of the Community Chest, state fund and a few subscriptions. Twenty-five tonsillectomies were performed and 30 dental cases were taken care of. Milk and medicine were provided to build up the child for the tonsillectomy.

The program was carried out by appointing a welfare chairman in each school, who with the aid of principals and teachers discovered that a large number of children were in school daily without food during the noon hour.

These children were told to report to the school cafeterias each day for a hot lunch and milk, or if the school did not contain a cafeteria, the lunches were prepared by a P.-T. A. member.

When cold weather started it became apparent that the need for warm clothing and shoes was great. The welfare chairman and principal, after investigating each case and ascertaining the needs of each child, purchased the necessary clothing for them. A clothing budget was kept and given to the Community Chest. A fund, based on these budgets, was allotted to each of the 12 schools and the Child Health clinic of the Community Chest. This fund was used to pay cafeteria, clothing and shoe bills, and to obtain medical aid when necessary.

Results of the Community Chest to aid needy children in the schools of the Twin Cities show that there is less illness and lack of clothing, less strain because of under-nourishment of both children and parents, less suffering from cold in going to dinner at noon and a decided improvement in school work and in the morale of the child.

The War Today

By DeWitt MacKenzie
(Associated Press Foreign Affairs Writer)

It is too soon to judge whether Mussolini's attack on Greece represents the beginning of an axis assault on the Dardanelles in an effort to crash through Turkey into the Near East, but if it does we are witnessing the start of a drama which may easily determine whether Fuehrer Hitler is to be master of a goodly part of the world or whether he is on the skids.

If the senior partner in the axis firm can break Britain's control of the Mediterranean he will pile upon her a disaster second in magnitude only to the smashing of England itself—so great that it likely would determine the outcome of the war.

Failure to achieve this goal, however, after his inability to crush England by bloody bombing and invasion, will just about write his finish.

We must await developments before deciding what the Italian invasion of Greece means. It may be merely a tactical move, designed to consolidate the axis position in the Balkans by securing vital air and naval bases, and by the same token, depriving Britain of their use.

Possession of these bases would permit the Italo-German armies to carry out bombing operations against the British in the Eastern Mediterranean through the winter even if a move against the Dardanelles were deferred until spring because of approaching bad weather.

Greek Premier General Metaxas this morning declared that the Italian method of delivering the territorial demands constituted a "declaration of war." It's easy to see the general's reasoning in this, since he undoubtedly construes a three-hour ultimatum, delivered at 3 o'clock in the morning when most of Greece was asleep, as amounting to a surprise attack.

The chief purpose of such a lightning stroke undoubtedly was to take the British by surprise if possible. England long has been pledged to give Greece all possible aid if the little country was attacked, and would be expected to get into immediate action if London was on it's toes.

There can be no doubt that in defying the might of Italy, Metaxas had reason to expect prompt and heavy assistance. His small, poorly equipped army and tiny navy would be wholly unlikely to stand much chance against Mussolini's streamlined war-machine.

An undetermined point of vast importance is whether Turkey will come to the aid of her Greek ally at this juncture.

Should that happen it presumably would precipitate immediately the fight for the Dardanelles and force the axis to inaugurate its big offensive willy-nilly, whether ready or not. Probably Turkey's action will depend on whether Russia gives a nod of acquiescence and that in itself will be a matter of moment, since the Bolshevist position is the big "if" of the moment.

Whether the Italian assault on Greece is intended merely as a preliminary operation in the battle of the Mediterranean, it wouldn't be at all surprising to see the axis stage an attack on Gibraltar as a companion piece to the Greek show. Just as possession of the Greek Islands across the mouth of the Aegean Sea represents a powerful strategical asset for offense or defense in the Eastern Mediterranean, so Gibraltar is of an importance as to be known as "key to the Mediterranean."

The axis partners long have been contemplating an assault on this famous fortress and naval base, and if it comes it undoubtedly will be engineered from Spanish soil just behind the rock. That probably is one of the questions which are being considered by Hitler and Mussolini in their conference in Florence today.

In connection with this conference, which was arranged Friday, I imagine a good many people will wonder whether, in view of the fact Mussolini struck just before he met with his partner, the Italian dictator put one across on the fuehrer. It's an interesting bit for speculation in any event.

NEW YORK FAIR DOWNS CURTAIN

Show Passes Into History Marked As King Of Expositions

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—(AP)—To the click of an all-time record gate, the New York World's fair has passed into history, wearing a crown of superlatives which marked it the king of expositions.

A total of 537,952 cash customers jammed its 1,216 acres as the curtain came down Sunday, sending the two-year mark to 45,008,385 paid admissions as compared with the previous high of 38,626,546 attracted by the Chicago Century of Progress Exposition in 1933-34. Sunday's crowd was the fair's largest.

Today squads of wreckers attacked the jamboree's gleaming facades in the first step toward transforming what was once Flushing dump into a great municipal park. Part of it is expected to be ready for New Yorkers next summer.

Constructed at a cost of about $155,000,000, the extravaganza gallantly went forward in creating a "world of tomorrow" in the face of a world at war. It proved a financial headache to its backers, who stand to recover about 38.4 cents on a dollar, but a joy to those who saw it.

Harvey D. Gibson, chairman of the fair board, estimated the net operating profit for the two years would approximate $5,000,000. The original bonded indebtedness totalled $26,862,800.

So great was the turnout for the finale that during one afternoon hour 100,000 flocked through the turnstiles. Eating establishments sold out before nightfall and not even a hot dog, of which a two year total of 16,220,358 was sold, could be bought.

Under the watchful eye of 1,000 extra policemen souvenir-hunters found it tough going. Practically every flower in the fair's extensive gardens was plucked; a few telephone receivers from pay booths were torn away and other items of unanchored bric-a-brac were removed.

But the cops had the final word in the matter, forcing all who carried "remembrances" to "check" them at the exits before they left.

An unscheduled blackout in the amusement area shortly after dark, caused by a power failure in a feeder line, brought a short cessation of fun and stalled in mid-air a half dozen parachutes at the parachute jump. An auxiliary power plant remedied the situation after five minutes.

Probably the outstanding event in the fair's spangled history was the visit of the king and queen of England in 1939. There was tragedy, too. On July 4 of this year a bomb planted in the British pavilion exploded after it had been carried outside and killed two detectives. The crime remains unsolved.

PLANE INDUSTRY HURTING MOVIES

Testing Of Motors Affects Sound In Filmland Studio Setup

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 28.—(AP)—Southern California's booming aircraft business is a shot in the arm to industry generally, but a headache to the movie studios.

It's too noisy.

Even on insulated sound stages, the drone of test plane motors has ruined scene after scene. And producers on location trips to mountains and desert report similar difficulties with bombers from the army air base at March Field, en route to a practice range at Muroc Dry Lake.

Harry Sherman, producer of the "Hopalong Cassidy" series, says he's lost so much time that he's sending director Lesley Selander to Flagstaff, Ariz., to investigate the possibility of filming all of his new picture in the nearby mountains.

It seemed tragic to director William Wellman, himself a World War flier, that a bomber was spoiling so many out door shots on his picture at Lake Arrowhead. Finally he asked an assistant to telephone March Field, explain the situation and see what could be done.

The assistant reported:

"March Field says it will radio your request to the pilot and Paramount men in the bomber. They're making sound track for 'I Wanted Wings'."

That's the studio's nearly-completed opus of the air corps.

HOME DEFENSE UNIT IS FORMED

Ground Forces, Cavalry, Harbor 'Navy' Included In Group

By Jack B. Beardwood

TACOMA, Wash., Oct. 28.—(AP)—A home defense corps that includes ground forces, cavalry and a harbor defense "navy," recruited exclusively from civilian ranks and which will use civilian equipment, is being organized here.

Its commanding officer, a retired major general, believes it can serve as a model for cities throughout the nation.

Preparing for war, earthquakes, fire or flood, the ground forces will be trained as fire-fighters, first-aid helpers, evacuation leaders, rescue crews, anti-sabotage guards and a host of other emergency duties.

The cavalry will patrol power transmission lines, guard dams and reservoirs and protect bridges and highways. It began training several weeks ago.

The "navy," being formed among Tacoma Yacht Club members, will patrol the waterfront shorelines that run past shipbuilding yards, chemical plants, gasoline depots and the Pacific Northwest's biggest smelter.

"This civilian 'army' will assume duties normally delegated to the national guard," Major General David L. Stone, whose last command was the Panama Canal Zone, explained. "It will guard our homes, our factories, our public utilities. It will compare with England's air raid precaution corps, fire-fighting units and bomb-removal squads.

"What we are preparing for might not happen here, but we might as well be prepared. At least we'll be mentally mobilized. Two years ago England had no idea what part civilians would take in modern warfare."

The model home defense corps is headed by the major and General Stone, who is assisted by three executive officers. Beneath these are four advisory boards: finance, naval, military and a contact group that will cooperate with national and Washington state home defense boards that General Stone believes will be established.

Also reporting to the corps commanding officer is a four-fold staff patterned after the army's general staff with personnel, intelligence, plans and training and supply sections.

Basic units of the entire plan are the 10 districts into which this city of 107,520 persons has been divided. Each district will comprise a home defense corps company. Its commanding officer will be an ex-service man or a reserve officer. He will drill his civilian recruits, plan their stations and duties and submit a plan showing vital points in his area.

"We will not ask the government for help," General Stone said. "We'll supply our own equipment. Our trucks and ambulances will be furnished by volunteers. Our only armament will be shotguns and small sidearms owned by corps members. Each man will produce his own clothing and cavalry members will furnish their own horses.

"Later, if the government can supply them, we'll man anti-aircraft guns with ex-service men. The corps would also distribute gas masks should they be provided by the government."

Corps members will be trained by firemen in each district in fire-fighting, rescue work and first aid. Police will demonstrate how to handle mobs and keep traffic moving.

PALATIAL LINER CRASHES SHORE

278 Passengers, Crew Rescued Without Harm After Accident

PRINCE RUPERT, B. C., Oct. 28.—(Canadian Press)—The million-dollar coastal liner Alaska lay with her bow almost in the trees on the shore of Elliott Bay today while her 278 passengers thanked luck and the efficiency of the ship's crew for their escape from the icy waters.

The 366-foot, 4,658-ton liner plowed full-speed into the shore 20 miles south of here Sunday, shoved her nose across the beach and listed 20 degrees to port. Oil from her forward tanks spread across the bay and eight feet of sea-water flooded into her forward hold. Her stern remained in 24 feet of water.

Captain O. C. Anderson, fearing the vessel would slip off into deep water, immediately ordered the passengers and six crewmen to abandon ship in the inky darkness of the northern winter night.

Partially dressed, covered with oil and shivering with cold, the passengers tumbled into boats and pulled for shore while an S. O. S. was summoning the liner North Coast. Some passengers fell into the water, but none was lost and none seriously injured.

While they waited for the rescue ship, fires were built on the shore and the travelers sang.

Captain Anderson and 115 crewmen remained on board ship, awaiting salvage efforts.

The North Coast, her own staterooms crowded, brought the wreck victims here, where they [illegible], many still in night clothes, for other ships. They huddled together on stairways and on floors until the liner Yukon took most of them back to Ketchikan early today.

The Alaska, a regular liner of the Alaska Steamship company, was bound from the territory to Seattle when she struck. The night was clear and calm. There was no immediate explanation given as to what caused the ship to run aground.

Pull the Trigger on Lazy Bowels with herb laxative, combined with syrup pepsin to make it agreeable and easy to take

When constipation brings on acid indigestion, bloating, dizzy spells, gas coated tongue, sour taste and bad breath, your stomach is probably "crying the blues" because your bowels don't move. It calls for Laxative Senna to pull the trigger on those lazy bowels, combined with good old Syrup Pepsin to make your laxative more agreeable and easier to take. For years many Doctors have used pepsin compounds, as agreeable carriers to make other medicines more palatable when your "taster" feels easily upset. So be sure your laxative contains Syrup Pepsin. Insist on Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Senna, combined with Syrup Pepsin. See how wonderfully its herb Laxative Senna wakes up lazy nerves and muscles in your intestines, to bring welcome relief from constipation. And see how its Syrup Pepsin makes Dr. Caldwell's medicine so smooth and agreeable to a touchy gullet. Even finicky children love the taste of this pleasant family laxative. Buy Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Senna at your druggist's today. Try one laxative that won't bring on violent distaste, even when you take it after a full meal.
